FACTORY EXPLOSION IN BELGIUM KILLS 250; INJURES 1,000

Blast Completely Destroys German-Controlled Gas and Explosives Plant—London Believes Secret "White Brigade" Active for Allies—Technical School Collapses—Houses Wrecked

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—A tremendous explosion has wiped out the German-controlled gas and explosives factory at Tessenderloo in seething North Belgium, killed 250 persons and injured upwards of 1,000, advices from the Nazi-occupied nation disclosed today.

The blast occurred in an industrial and mining area where sabotage has been rife, and the impression was strong in London that the secretly-armed Belgium "White Brigade," a band of patriots which is preparing for the day when they can assist Allied invasion of the Low Countries, had struck a hard first blow at the conqueror.

NAZIS TO INVESTIGATE

The German army was in complete charge at Tessenderloo, and the German account of the blast, distributed by the Berlin radio, said cryptically that "the cause of the disaster, which has not been ascertained, is the subject of an inquiry."

But later in the day the German radio reported that 100 "Communists" are being deported from Belgium to the East for fomenting sabotage in factories and elsewhere and for causing strikes.

The blast occurred at 11:30 a.m., Wednesday. Free Belgian sources here said the factory involved was that of the Societe Anonyme Des Produits Chimiques.

COL. SUTCLIFFE DIES IN CHINA

Officer Commanding Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hongkong Succumbs

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP).—Lt.-Col. John L. R. Sutcliffe, officer commanding the 1st Battalion of the Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hongkong, has died of illness while a prisoner of war, Defence Minister Ralston announced today.

COMMANDED FORCES

WINNIPEG, May 1 (CP).—Winnipeg tonight mourned the death of Lt.-Col. John Louis Robert Sutcliffe, forty-four, officer commanding the Winnipeg Grenadiers and commander of all Canadian forces before the fall of Hongkong, December 25, 1941.

A telegram received by his widow, Mrs. Kathleen Jane Sutcliffe, of Winnipeg, from the officer in charge of records at Ottawa merely said Col. Sutcliffe's death from illness while a prisoner of war had been reported by the International Red Cross from Geneva.

BORN IN YORKSHIRE

Born in Yorkshire, England, Col. Sutcliffe enlisted here in the first Great War on his birthday, August 29, 1914, and, as a member of the Fort Garry Horse went overseas with the 6th Battalion. He went to France with Royal Canadian Dragoons and after seven months' service was commissioned in the Imperial Army.

He volunteered for active service in the present war on September 5, 1939, and went to Jamaica with the Grenadiers before the unit was ordered to Hongkong.

At Hongkong Col. Sutcliffe took over command of the Canadian contingent after Brig. J. K. Lawson, of Ottawa, brigade commander and Col. Patrick Hennessy, also of Ottawa, second in command, were killed by Japanese shellfire.

Besides his widow, survivors include a son, Aircraftman R. D. Sutcliffe, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, now stationed near Moncton, N.B., and a daughter, Joan, a nurse in training here.

New England Fires Deliberately Set

BOSTON, May 1 (AP).—Reports piled up tonight that a score of fires which broke out suddenly in New England woodlands within a twenty-four-hour period were deliberately set.

Damage was estimated unofficially at well above $2,000,000. Even before all of the blazes were reported checked, at least temporarily, the Army Intelligence, Federal and State officials sent investigators into the burned areas.

URGES ARMY OF PACIFIC

Howard Green Advocates Large Force on Coast—Ralston Explains Situation

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP).—Efforts are being made to keep misfits out of the army, Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons today.

Medical regulations have been amended somewhat to provide that aptitude tests are to be given to men along with their medical examination and medical boards are being provided with more skilled help.

The minister made the statement in answer to Captain Leslie Mutch (Lib., Winnipeg South), who along with Captain Rodney Adamson (Con., York West) made a number of suggestions based on their experience in the army.

PACIFIC COAST DEFENCES

Col. Ralston was also drawn into a discussion of Pacific Coast defences by Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South), who said Canada should build up "an army of the Pacific" comparable to the Canadian Army in Great Britain.

Mr. Green said he objected to trained men being drafted out of units on the Pacific Coast for service elsewhere and demanded action this session to remove the restriction on the sending outside Canada of men who have been called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Col. Ralston said as far as the use of such men in the United States or in Alaska was concerned Prime Minister Mackenzie King had stated they would be sent to those areas if required. As to sending them overseas that was something that would be considered in the light of the result of the plebiscite.

Everything possible was being done, having regard to needs elsewhere, to strengthen Pacific defences in both men and equipment. The greater part of the 7th and 8th

SEVEN KILLED IN POWDER FACTORY

Dozen More Women Workers Injured in Blast in Pennsylvania Plant

McKEESPORT, Pa., May 1 (AP).—An explosion killed at least seven women and injured a dozen more today in a powder plant of the Central Railways Signal Company in adjoining Versailles borough.

About forty women were employed in the one-story building, where flares, torpedoes and other railroad signals were manufactured.

The blast let go at 2:40 p.m., ripping off part of the roof and blowing out the windows and window frames. Homes were shaken two miles distant.

SIR EDWARD BEATTY

D. C. COLEMAN

Sir Edward's Resignation as President of the Canadian Pacific Was Announced Yesterday. Mr. Coleman, Vice-President of the Company, Becomes Head of the System.

Beatty Resigns; Coleman Made Head of Railway

President of Canadian Pacific Leaves Post Because of Ill Health—Resignation Is Accepted at Meeting of Directors, Who Named D. C. Coleman, Vice-President, as Successor

MONTREAL, May 1 (CP).—D. C. Coleman today became president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, succeeding Sir Edward Beatty in one of the biggest transportation jobs in the world.

Sir Edward, who resigned because of ill-health, remains chairman of the board.

Speaking of Sir Edward's illness, which began more than a year ago, a company announcement said it was brought on "by over-exertion." However, there had been a marked improvement in recent months, but his doctors advised him that complete recovery could only be reached if he abandoned some of his responsibilities.

Sir Edward was only forty when he became the youngest president of the world's greatest privately-owned transportation system in 1918. The retiring Lord Shaughnessy offered his young legal expert the job and Sir Edward accepted with hesitation, giving up an ambition to become a judge.

BECOMES ADVISER

The company statement said that the directors had requested Sir Edward to remain as chairman "and thus be available for counsel at all times."

Sir Edward, of Irish parentage, resigned at the age of sixty-five to be succeeded by Mr. Coleman, also

ATTACK THIRTY PLANES AT LAE

Allied Airmen Make Smashing Raid on Japanese Base in New Guinea

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 1 (AP).—Allied airmen swept down on an enemy airdrome at Lae in New Guinea, Thursday, bombed and machine-gunned thirty planes lined up on the ground in a surprise attack and roared off after starting numerous large fires, a communique announced today.

In another raid on Salamaua, twenty miles to the south, other Allied bombers shot down three Japanese defending planes, and then unloaded their explosives on ground installations.

CAUGHT UNPREPARED

Allied losses were described as slight in the communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters. It mentioned no opposition by the Japanese at Lae, indicating the raiders found the Japanese unprepared, despite almost daily Allied raids on the area.

Eight Japanese bombers raided Horn Island, off Cape York, at the northeast tip of Australia, with little damage, while another Japanese formation raided Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, "without effect," the communique said.

On the Philippine sector, three Japanese planes were shot down in a renewal of the attack on Corregidor by air and land forces and two others were damaged.

CRIPPS TO SPEAK

LONDON, May 1 (CP).—The B.B.C. announced today that Sir Stafford Cripps is making a postscript to the 9 p.m. (noon, P.D.T.) news, Sunday, instead of the talk on India originally scheduled for 2:30 a.m., the same day. The new subject was not announced.

BOMBS DROPPED IN SUEZ AREA

Other Raiders Appear at the Mouth of Nile—Little Damage Done

CAIRO, May 1 (AP).—Bombs were dropped in the Suez Canal and Damietta areas in an air raid last night, said a communique issued by the Egyptian Ministry of Interior.

Damietta lies on a mouth of the Nile, about thirty miles northwest across Lake Manzala from Port Said, the Mediterranean mouth of the canal.

The damage was slight, the communique said, but six persons were injured in the canal area. Raid warnings were sounded in other parts of the Nile Delta region.

TWO RAIDERS BAGGED

A communique from British air headquarters said night fighters shot down two of the enemy raiders without loss to themselves.

Another three enemy planes were destroyed over Malta Wednesday night and Thursday morning, two by anti-aircraft fire and one by a fighter.

In the Libyan Desert dust storms hampered operations on land and in the air.

Young Flyer Wins Medal For Bravery

LONDON, May 1 (CP).—Flt. Sgt. Garth Edward Horricks, of Toronto, described officially as "a fearless pilot" who destroyed at least three Nazi aircraft, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal, it was announced today.

The citation said the twenty-one-year-old native of Renfrew, Ont., "invariably presses home his attacks with the utmost determination regardless of the odds." In addition to the three confirmed victories, he has probably destroyed a further two.

Japanese Thrusts to China Border Menace To New Supply Route

Chinese Reinforcements Moving Down Burma Road in Attempt to Halt Invaders—Enemy Now Within Forty-Five Miles of Yunnan Frontier

CHUNGKING, May 1 (AP).—Free China, endangered as never before by a Japanese back-door thrust which has penetrated within forty-five miles of her border, sent reinforcements streaming down the Burma Road today in a supreme attempt to stop the Japanese columns raging through Northeastern Burma.

Forging due north from captured, blazing Lashio, where the Mandalay railroad meets the twisting supply route through the mountains, the Japanese reached the vicinity of Hsenwi, twenty-two miles northeast of Lashio along the Burma Road.

The Chinese High Command said tonight that the Chinese defenders were holding steadfast in the Hsenwi sector under heavy pressure, and that some of the southbound reinforcements already had reached Hsenwi from China's Yunnan Province.

TRYING FOR BORDER

There appeared no doubt, now, that the Japanese were going all-out to reach China's Yunnan border, which is forty-five miles east and fifty-five miles north of Hsenwi.

(For some time informed opinion has inclined to the belief that the

Forty-Five Men Missing in Two British Warships

LONDON, May 1 (CP).—The Admiralty announced tonight that forty-five naval ratings and others were killed or missing and presumed killed in the loss of the destroyer, H.M.S. Heythrop and H.M. Submarine H31. The H31 was reported lost last January 24 and the Heythrop April 3.

AXIS CHIEFS END MEETING

Looking for More Troops for Russian Front — Home Discipline Discussed

BERNE, Switzerland, May 1 (AP).—Hitler and Mussolini were reported tonight to have dwelt in the main during two days of conference at Salzburg on measures for increasing the number of effective Axis troops on the Russian front and on rigid enforcement of home discipline both in Germany and Italy.

They also were believed by competent diplomatic analysts to have given up any hope of negotiating a peace this Spring, after three weeks of unofficial overtures.

Axis communiques today disclosed the bare facts of the dictators' eleventh meeting, Wednesday and Thursday, and Axis commentators said, as usual, that it was a preface to "great political and military events" early this Summer.

NO JAPANESE PRESENT

Contrary to expectations, the Japanese Ambassador to Berlin, Lieut.-General Hiroshi Oshima, was not on hand, and it was noted that official German accounts of the meeting spoke of "the uniform war plan of the Axis and beyond that of the Tri-Partite Pact powers," and of the "hard determination of Germany and Italy and their allies to render final victory secure"—as though Japan was a separate entity in the totalitarian strategy.

It was believed, however, that Oshima might meet Hitler and Mussolini in the near future for a detailed discussion of Axis war efforts. Foreign military observers here thought this would involve an effort to get Japan into the war against Russia by Summer.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Behind the familiar Axis communique curtain, decorated with such phrases as the one that "a perfect accord of views" had been

MAY QUIT CABINET

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP).—The Ottawa French-language newspaper Le Droit today said "A rumor, impossible to confirm, says that Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works and Transport, announced his resignation from the Federal Cabinet here late today."

JAPS LOSE HEAVILY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 2 (Saturday) (AP).—Allied airmen successfully bombed Japanese airdrome installations at Gasmata, on New Britain Island, and shot down one of seven Japanese fighter planes which sought to intercept them on a reconnaissance flight over New Guinea, a communique said today. Another Japanese plane was destroyed when five enemy craft attacked Port Moresby, New Guinea, yesterday, the communique added.

DANISH PREMIER DYING

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 2 (Saturday) (AP).—A Copenhagen dispatch said early today that Prime Minister Thovald Stauning of Denmark was sinking rapidly and that his death was expected shortly.

AID FOR CANADIANS

MONTREAL, May 1 (CP).—The Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims, at the desire of the Department of National War Services, will send $18,000 to Australia to bring aid to Canadian refugees there, it was announced today.

LOSING MORE PLANES

VALETTA, Malta, May 1 (AP).—Six enemy planes were destroyed and eight damaged during raids on Malta in the last twenty-four hours, a British headquarters communique said tonight.

New Archbishop Of York Elected

YORK, England, May 1 (CP).—Rt. Rev. Cyril Forster Garbett, Bishop of Winchester since 1932, today was elected Archbishop of York, succeeding Most Rev. William Temple, who was enthroned last week as Archbishop of Canterbury.

Dr. Garbett's appointment was announced at the same time as Dr. Temple was named to the seat of Canterbury, and the election today was a formality.

FRENCH COAST PORTS POUNDED BY HEAVY FORCE OF BOMBERS

Big Bostons Sweep Across Channel in Renewal of Raids on Nazi-Occupied Territory—German Action Over Britain Light—Canadians Bag Two of Enemy Machines

Home Secretary Declares No Stopping of Offensive

LONDON, May 1 (AP).—Strong forces of Boston bombers, heavily escorted by fighter aircraft, swept across the Channel late today to blast the station and railway yards at St. Omer, France. Other Bostons pounded objectives at Calais, and bomb-carrying Hurricanes attacked other targets in Northern France.

The Air Ministry, reporting the actions in its night communique, said that eight British fighters were lost, but that the pilot of one was safe. No bombers were lost, it was emphasized.

In contrast, German action over Britain was light, a joint communique of the Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security reported. Early in the morning a few enemy aircraft flew over the southeast coast of England for a short time. Bombs they dropped caused little damage and there were no serious casualties.

Resumption of the massive British attacks followed a weather-enforced overnight break in the nine-day-old, round-the-clock offensive and came on the heels of neutral dispatches from Germany which some London quarters interpreted as hints that the Nazis were more than willing to call off their aerial duel with Britain now, but which brought only an expression of scorn from an authoritative source here.

FIGHTERS MISSING

The Air Ministry said eight British fighters were missing in the day's operations and that one German plane was destroyed.

The grey cliffs of Northern France were clearly visible to watchers on

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, May 1 (By Cable).—After a mass assault with tanks, armored cars and airplanes, the Japanese have occupied the towns of old and new Lashio and cut the Burma Road into China. From Chungking it is reported Chinese troops determinedly resisted and they are continuing the battle outside the town.

The Japanese evidently are aiming to surround Mandalay. The position is undoubtedly grave, but the Chinese remain hopeful they can still hold the invaders.

From Calcutta The Times' correspondent reports there is still a chance of holding in the hills so far as to bar entry into Assam. Even Mandalay's fall will not mean an end to the Burmese campaign. When the monsoon comes the Japanese should find further advance difficult. Already good use has been made of air transport from India and lease-lend material had reached Lashio in considerable quantities lately.

The Times' military correspondent says there are various routes into China farther north than the Burma Road, especially that from Bhamo eastward into Yunnan. But they are little more than mountain trails. Chinese spokesmen still talk hopefully of a counter-offensive in Northern Burma, but what counts is power to carry it through.

Australia's air offensive against the Japanese in New Guinea continues successfully. Lae airfield has been heavily bombed and twenty enemy machines destroyed on the ground. This is the heaviest loss so far. The Japanese have been using Lae as a base for their heavy bombers. The position now is that both sides are trying to knock each other's airdromes, with the advantage so far on the Allied side because of better airplanes.

Stalin's May Day message to the Russian people emphasizes further terrible atrocities of which the Nazis have been guilty in Russia. He pillories Goering and German bankers for looting Europe, and describes the German army as shedding its blood for entrenchment of Nazi plutocrats.

The Russians keep up local attacks in Finland where thaws are beginning. Almost intolerable conditions in quagmires around Leningrad are causing more casualties to both sides, says The Times' Stockholm correspondent, than losses in actual fighting.

In Russia today the chief question is when will Japan attack. The Japanese are undoubtedly increasing forces on the Soviets' Far Eastern frontier. But in Moscow it is said if Japan tries a stab in the back she will find that back has armor under its jacket.

EIGHTEEN IN FATAL CRASH

Big Passenger Liner Hits Mountainside Near Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, May 1 (AP).—Eighteen persons died tonight in the flaming wreckage of a United Airlines mainliner which crashed against a mountainside in sight of the Salt Lake City Airport.

The plane apparently burst into flames immediately.

United Airlines officials said the plane carried fifteen passengers, including two infants, and a crew of three.

Local airlines officials sent ground crews to the scene, part way up the side of the rugged Wasatch Mountains which rim Salt Lake City.

United Airlines office at Denver said the crew of the plane was Captain Don Brown, First Officer Harold Miner and Stewardess Neva Cantwell, all of San Francisco.

EASTBOUND TO NEW YORK

The liner was Trip No. 4 eastbound to New York. It left San Francisco about 6 p.m. (P.D.T.) and was due in Salt Lake City at 11:31 p.m. (M.D.T.)

The plane was in contact with the Municipal Airport, United Airlines officials said, and was preparing for a routine landing, with a nine-mile visibility, and was in sight of the airfield when the crash occurred.

Radio contact was maintained almost up to the time of the crash.

PAY PENALTY FOR HELPING GENERAL

Moscow Reports French Officers Executed for Aiding Giraud's Escape From Germany

MOSCOW, May 2 (Saturday), (AP).—Thirty French officers have been executed in Germany as suspected accomplices in the escape of General Henri Giraud from the German prison at Koenigstein, a Tass dispatch from Stockholm said today.

The Moscow radio, broadcasting the report, said a special Nazi commission headed by Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler arrived in Dresden to inquire into the circumstances of General Giraud's escape.

Giraud has been reported in Vichy since his escape via Switzerland, but Vichy officials have refused to confirm or deny his presence there.

Himmler and his aides were said to have rounded up the French officer hostages in German prison camps, and their execution yesterday was ordered by Berlin "because they were suspected of having assisted Giraud to escape and because of participation in anti-German activities."

Chinese Slay Thousand of Enemy Force

CHUNGKING, China, May 2 (Saturday), (AP).—Chinese field dispatches from the Honan Province battlefront said tonight 1,000 Japanese had been slain in an attempted drive by the invader northwestward from Sinyang.

The entire Japanese force, reported to number 6,000 men, was reported trapped near Minkong, rail town twenty miles north of Sinyang, and forced into disordered retreat back toward their starting point.

Germany's Hopes for Offensive in Spring Is Gone, Soviet Claims

Russians Announce List of Victories Over Nazis Including Sinking of Battleship—Hitler's Casualties in April 58,000 Men

KUIBYSHEV, May 1 (AP).—The guns, the bombs and the bayonets of the Red Army have punctured beyond repair Hitler's vaunted Spring offensive plans; the Russians declared on this May Day in announcing an imposing list of new Soviet victories by land and sea.

To the country's workers and fighters Joseph Stalin broadcast a message of confidence, the army newspaper Red Star praised the armed forces for "converting into a fable" Hitler's early offensive preparations and the Moscow radio announced these victories for Soviet arms:

The sinking of a German battleship—the first thus far by the Russians—by the Red Navy's Baltic fleet.

A total of 58,000 Germans killed or wounded and 248 enemy planes destroyed in April on the Leningrad front alone.

In a resume of the Baltic fleet's operations—presumably since the

CANADIANS FLY BOSTON BOMBER

Speedy Plane Delivering Hard Blows at Axis—Raid in Daylight

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 1 (CP).—An R.C.A.F. squadron is delivering quick, hard blows at the Axis with the new United States-built Boston III attack bomber.

The speedy plane, twin of the Nazi-feared Havoc night fighter, has just been turned over to the Canadians who flew it on the recent Sunday afternoon attack on the Matford works at Poissy.

Features of the stocky, twin-engined Boston are speed—officially listed as "more than 300 miles an hour"—and defensive armament of six machine guns.

CARRIES BIG LOAD

The Boston is both faster and carries twice the bomb-load of the Bristol Blenheim whose place it is taking as a day bomber.

With strong fighter escorts, Bostons have carried out daylight raids on the power station at Comines, railway yards at Abbeville and Hazebrouck and shipyards at Le Trait.

Few of them have been lost to Nazi fighters, and one active squadron equipped with them has not lost a single plane.

EDMONTON FIRE IS SPECTACULAR

Many Horses Perish in Blaze—High Wind Carries Sparks Over Wide Area

EDMONTON, May 1 (CP).—Thirty-two horses, one cow and a cat were burned to death late today in a two-alarm fire which destroyed the Great West Feed & Sales Stable.

Damage was estimated by the owner, Rex Ireland, at about $6,000. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

A high southwest wind sent sparks flying over a three-block area and roofs of two houses and a church caught fire, but were put out by quick action of the fire department.

A climax to the fire was provided when a high board fence near the burning structure collapsed under the weight of thirty children who had climbed onto it to watch the blaze.

One-Legged Pilot Gets Decoration

CANBERRA, May 1 (AAP).—Australia's one-legged pilot, Flight Lieut. Bruce Frederick Rose, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry and skill in operations against the Germans, according to a dispatch today from R.A.A.F. Overseas Headquarters.

Rose lost his leg in April, 1941, when forced to bail out of a Blenheim bomber and his leg was struck by a whirling airscrew.

Veterans of English Skies Lead Fighter Squadron on Coast

Heroes of Battle of Britain Are Reluctant to Discuss Exploits—Believe Historic Blitz Gone Into History as Events Happen Fast

FOR proud Canadians, interest in the Battle of Britain will never die, and the exploits of the Empire's gallant airmen will live forever. Not so for many of the veterans themselves. The fast tempo of these momentous times has already pushed those great, thrilling and anxious days into the limbo. Other things are happening, fast, and they have no desire to rest on their laurels.

One of these forward-looking pilots is Squadron Leader A. D. Nesbitt, D.F.C., tall, modest and quiet-spoken leader of the Thunderbird Fighter Squadron.

"This Battle of Britain heroes business is pretty well overdone, don't you think?" smiled the young airman when interviewed by newspapermen at his West Coast station yesterday afternoon.

TOO MUCH PUBLICITY

"I really haven't anything to say," he added. "When I came back from England there was extensive publicity in the papers. I think you should concentrate on the other men."

One of the "younger men" under Squadron Leader Nesbitt—just then seated nearby, his "Mae West" slung over his shoulders, a pen in one hand and a soft drink in the other—was Flight Lieutenant J. W. Kerwin, of Toronto.

Flight Lieutenant Kerwin, also a veteran of the English skies, is one of the two flight commanders in the Thunderbird Squadron, which was recently given that name at a ceremony at the West Coast station. The other flight commander is H. T. Mitchell, D.F.C., of the R.A.F.

Kerwin, blond, curly-haired and only twenty-three, got into the Battle of Britain on August 14 of that historic year 1940. He was shot down in Kent, early in September.

BALED OUT AT 17,000

"I guess I was machine-gunned. I left the ship afire when I baled out at about 17,000 feet. A Hurricane escort flew me down and I landed in a field. There were a lot of people there when I arrived."

"How would you like to go back?" the young airman was asked.

"Depends on what you mean—back where? It's a matter of geography with me. I've been in England now I'm here—and I like it fine."

In the Battle of Britain, young Kerwin flew a Hurricane fighter craft in Wing Commander Ernest McNab's squadron.

Asked if he had accounted for any enemy planes, he admitted he'd "got a couple." Actually, in the official records, he is credited with three.

A popular lad around the station, where his pals all call him "Johnny," Flight Lieut. Kerwin demonstrated the handling of the "Mae West," which is a piece of equipment shaped something like a horse collar. Filled with air, it keeps the downed airman afloat in the sea. He was wearing it, partly inflated, he explained, because he was "in readiness"—airman's language for being all set to take to the air. Out on the runway his plane was waiting, his parachute and helmet handily placed on a wing. Periodically, attendants went out and warmed up the engine.

"MAE WEST" FOR CURVES

"We call it a 'Mae West'," Johnny told reporters, "because under our flying suit it really gives us curves."

Johnny joined the R.C.A.F. early in January, 1939, trained at Trenton, and went overseas the following June.

A small, tabulated slip of paper, pinned on the office wall, attracted the attention of reporters. It showed a list of units and opposite their names were listed percentages. Across from the Thunderbird Squadron was the notation "300 per cent."

Someone asked what it meant and Squadron Leader Nesbitt, reluctant to talk about the bills, was on his feet and in the centre of the group in a matter of seconds.

"It means," he proudly volunteered, "that our outfit oversubscribed its Victory Loan quota 300 per cent."

IN ACTION AT DUNKERQUE

The other flight commander, Flight Lieut. H. T. Mitchell, D.F.C., was born in Port Hope, Ont., but lived on and off in England for eighteen years. He joined the Royal Air Force in England in 1938 and was thoroughly trained when war broke out. He flew Hurricanes in France before Dunkerque and was credited with shooting down three Jerries. He saw plenty of action during the retreat and later downed four more of Goering's Luftwaffe. He received the D.F.C. a year ago.

Pilots attached to the Thunderbird Squadron are on the average twenty-two years of age. They come from Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and the United States.

SOME SQUADRON PILOTS

They include: Pilot Officers J. C. Ashburner, Medicine Hat; J. G. Gohl, Winnipeg; J. O. Eskil, Iron Mountain, Mich.; H. O. Gooding and W. H. Hanchet, Ottawa; J. M. Ingalls, Huntsville, Ala.; R. Lynch, Winnipeg; H. C. Paynter, Toronto; J. D. Orr, Winnipeg; D. J. Sterling, Ottawa; G. A. Stiles, Cornwall, Ont., and D. M. Whiteside, Wichita, Kas.

Flight Sergt. L. T. Orthman, San Francisco, and Sergt. Pilots G. D. Baird, Winnipeg; R. R. Christy, Seattle and Victoria; A. R. Clark, Detroit; A. E. Clarke, North Bay, Ont.; F. J. Crowley, Brockville; W. F. Delany (address not given); F. R. Lennon, Clifton, N.J.; S. R. Maxmen, Moose Jaw; S. R. J. McLeod, Alexandria, Ont.; E. A. Merkley, Winnipeg; H. J. Ronalds (address not given); G. T. Schwalm, Toronto; F. R. F. Skelly, Kirkland Lake, Ont., and N. Stusiak, Powell River, B.C.

The Thunderbird Squadron was named after the mighty Thunderbird, ruler of the skies in Indian mythology, and Indians hereabouts wish its members "happy landing" always.

School Cadets Make Imposing Array

Victoria High School Army Cadets are shown in this striking picture as they were being inspected on Friday morning by Maj. W. R. Critchley, G.S.O.3 Cadets, M.D. 11, during his tour of cadet units in British Columbia. The cadets carried out displays of physical training, first aid, signaling, map reading and musketry, and took part in a march past. They were commanded by Cadet Lieut.-Col. D. K. Crockett.

Divisions would be stationed on or close to the Pacific Coast.

The Defence Minister said men are being drafted out of units on the West Coast to be sent overseas and replaced by other trained men from the training centres. They were not being replaced by untrained men. The draft at any time did not exceed 10 per cent of a unit's strength.

Mr. Mutch said that too many men had been discharged from the army because they were unlikely to become efficient soldiers. If there were more selection at the time of enlistment there would be fewer discharges. He suggested a representative of the army's personnel selection board be stationed at every recruiting centre.

"I think the number of discharges could have been substantially reduced had mental tests been given at the start," said Col. Ralston.

"BESETTING SIN"

Capt. Adamson said the custom of staff officers remaining close to their offices instead of visiting field formations and training centres is "one of the besetting sins" interfering with Canada's war effort.

Although he has been on active service since the outbreak of war, Capt. Adamson said he could recall only one visit from a staff officer to his unit.

He urged that young recruits be given modern weapons immediately they start their training.

Col. Ralston said that officers in charge of training are brought together for regular conferences at which they make and discuss suggestions based on their experience. One staff officer at all times was on the road in connection with training, and Lt.-Gen. K. Stuart, chief of staff, and Brig. E. G. Weeks, director of training, now were on a ten-day tour of military establishments.

"The rifle situation is not the way we would like it," said the minister.

While he said he would like to give basic training centres a complete set of modern weapons, that could not be done because of obligations to the "people who are on the firing line."

COMPULSORY TRAINING

Answering a question from J. A. Ross (Cons., Souris) Col. Ralston said since the start of the four-month compulsory military training plan a total of 52,336 men have been called up for army service. The figure included 10,730 men recalled after having previously received thirty days' training.

Of the men who had passed through the four-month training period so far 9,350, or about 36 per cent had volunteered for and been accepted for service anywhere in the world with the navy, the air force or the army.

Most units now in Canada had both home defence troops and general service troops—those liable for service in Canada only and those who had volunteered to serve outside Canada in the units.

Col. Ralston said there are arguments both for and against mixing the two classes of soldiers in the same units but it was not practicable to keep them in separate units. If the manpower of Canada was to be used the men called up compulsorily had to be trained for operations and the only way to give them effective operation training was to absorb them into units of the army where they could become acclimatized on completion of their four months in the training centres.

Col. Ralston said 15,269 home defence personnel now are in the army in Canada after completing their basic training and another 16,074 are in training centres.

HOPE FOR SPRING OFFENSIVE GONE

war's start—the radio announcement listed 447 German ships destroyed, including the battleship, a cruiser, sixteen destroyers, eighteen submarines, eighteen torpedo boats and 114 transports.

The name of the battleship reported sunk or the date of its destruction was not given. (At last accounts Germany had three battleships, two building and two pocket battleships.)

Soviet airmen and anti-aircraft gunners of the Baltic fleet were credited with having downed 721 enemy planes.

The Moscow communique tonight reported a 9,000-ton German transport had been sunk in the Barents Sea, and listed thirty-eight Nazi aircraft destroyed yesterday against nine Soviet losses.

A supplement related that Soviet guerrillas seized a number of villages behind the German lines in the Leningrad sector, and that all enemy efforts to regain them had been repulsed. On the Kalinin front it reported 900 Germans killed in two days.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy.

JAPANESE MENACE NEW SUPPLY LINE

Japanese drive through Eastern Burma was aimed at China, rather than in preparation for a westward attack on India. At their present location in the Hsenwi area, the Japanese not only are enveloping the actual Burma Road, but are in a position to menace the new and incomplete India-China route to the north, the 2,300-mile Assam-Sikang Road.

(Moreover, one Axis report today placed first on a list of possible Japanese moves a drive into China to menace Chungking, the Free Chinese capital, itself.)

Far south of Lashio, isolated Chinese units in the Shan State area of Taunggyi and Loilem still were attacking in an effort to cut the extended Japanese supply lines and, a communique said, were inflicting heavy casualties.

To the west, the Japanese frontal attack on Mandalay had progressed to a point twenty miles south of that city, and fighting was proceeding in the vicinity of Kyaukse.

(New Delhi dispatches said that the Japanese had advanced northwest of Mandalay as well as northeast and that the song-famous city actually was in a salient.)

Treasures From Far and Wide to Be Seen at Fair

Visitors to the United Nations Victory Fair, afternoon and evening, at the Crystal Garden, on May 5, will be interested in the Mexican booth. The romantic history and the interesting people of that picturesque country will be illustrated by a varied display of valuable and beautiful exhibits collected through the years by residents of Victoria.

For the Czechoslovakia exhibit the author, Hendrik Van Loon, is sending an autographed copy of one of his books with a special picture drawn on the title page.

An interesting booth will be the white elephant stall, marked with a large white elephant of the plywood variety. The stall is somewhat of a departure from the general motif of the fair, in that it does not represent displays from any one particular Allied Nation. Instead, it will offer for sale a wide assortment of interesting articles from many lands. Among the host of unique items may be found numerous gift suggestions, bridge prizes and other novelties.

At two "luck shops" twelve costumed tray-girls will sell cigarettes, peanuts and soft drinks.

The Palestine exhibit will be one of the most varied at the fair. A wide range of brooches and filigree bracelets will be on display. Olive oil soaps are also featured as well as typical embroidery.

Royal City Store Heavily Damaged

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 1 (CP)—Damage estimated at about $20,000 was caused tonight when fire broke out in mattresses on the second floor of Forst's Limited furniture store here.

The fire was confined chiefly to the one floor in the four-story brick building and most of the damage was caused by smoke and water.

Y.M.C.A. SHOW IS POPULAR

Audience Applauds Performance of Versatile Artists On First Night

[illegible] the Willows Sports Centre last night to give an enthusiastic reception to the first-nighter performance of the Y.M.C.A.'s Bingling Brothers' Circus, featuring scores of local youngsters and several professional artists in a series of eighteen comedy, acrobatic and dancing acts. The show will be repeated tonight.

From the opening number, Rise and Shine, featuring prep and junior members of the Y.M.C.A., to the climax, featuring the massed bands of the three armed services, there was scarcely a moment's lag in the entertainment. Both local and imported pantomimists and artists, as well as youthful "Y" acrobatics, drew thunderous applause.

PROFESSIONAL ACTS

Top-ranking professional acts which proved popular with the audience included Oto and Eliah, New York artists, and Miss Patsy Britten, versatile Hollywood performer formerly featured in "Our Gang" comedies.

Oto, male of the New York pair, and a finished pantomimist, gained an ovation with his comic acrobatics and his table-balancing act, requiring three tables and a chair, and taking him high off the floor. Oto is making his last appearance here before joining the United States Navy. The act was completed by some fast and tricky roller skating by Miss Eliah Dare.

Patsy Britten, young Hollywood star, proved another popular highlight, with a versatility ranging from an accordion and dancing number to acrobatics.

JUNIOR LEADERS

In the gymnastics line young local performers gained enthusiastic applause, with the Y.M.C.A. Junior Leaders displaying rapid gymnastics and the intermediate boys in an entertaining Zulu Act.

Equally up in their gymnastics was a girls' team of three, Joan McKinnon, Peggy Sparks and Eunice Vye, who gave a popular presentation of tumbling and contortions.

Novelty numbers on a blackout theme provided an unusual and entertaining sidelight to the show. Nine Victoria High School boys in torch-swinging act under the direction of W. A. Roper, wove circles of light in the darkened auditorium with their flame-tipped Indian clubs, while Y.M.C.A. intermediate boys gave an eerie blackout performance with faintly luminescent figures darting after a glowing ball in the darkness.

NOVELTY NUMBERS

Two other novelty numbers which received an enthusiastic reception from the audience were the Comedy Car—an old model "T" Ford complete with eccentricities, featuring Y.M.C.A. clowns under Jim Taylor, and F. Merryfield, escape artist who wriggled out of a straight jacket. Jim Taylor and Tom Harding provided more laughs in another clown act called Barbershop Skit.

Another comic highlight was the Trick Jailhouse, featuring Y.M.C.A. coach, Archie McKinnon, and Len Oliver as Oliver and Hardy in a laughable comic-acrobatic skit, while members of Wynne Shaw's Dance School provided more amusement in Animal Crackers, with Agnes Richards and Patsy Smith as the giraffe, and Mildred Cox as the Panda bear.

Colorful and more serious dancing was provided by members of the Victoria Ukranian Society and members of Wynne Shaw's Dance School, Patsy Sparks, Sheila Beckwith, Mildred Cox, Marilyn Ivings, Patricia Coulter and Anne Henderson, in Mazurka Dance.

Music was provided throughout the programme by the Gizeh Temple Band.

STEERING GEAR OF CAR BREAKS

Driving his car east on Esquimalt Road last night at 9:35 o'clock, J. R. Taylor, H.M.C.S. Givenchy, the steering gear of his machine broke and the car ran off the road and dropped five feet into the yard of 720 Esquimalt Road, near Harnard Road. No one was injured.

A car driven north on Cedar Hill Road by Vincent F. Townsend, 3451 Shelbourne Street, was proceeding past 3143 Cedar Hill Road when David Stock, thirteen years of age, ran out onto the street into the side of the car. He received head injuries and was taken into his home and a doctor called. The accident occurred at 6:10 p.m.

Two cars, one driven east on Yates Street by Charles William Bardsley, Cadboro Bay P.O., and the other proceeding west on Yates Street operated by Johnson Herbert Cazely, 1215 Langley Street, collided on Yates Street, between Government and Wharf Street yesterday afternoon at 5:05 o'clock. The windshield of the Bardsley car was broken and Corporal Calwell, Esquimalt Military Hospital, a passenger in the car, was cut on the head. He was removed to hospital in the police patrol.

"Now, what are you worried about, Mrs. Waggs?"

"Well, Mrs. Taggs, I'm wondering about all those finance company collectors. What will they do now that no automobiles are being sold and not paid for?"

FACTORY BLAST TAKES BIG TOLL

Berlin said it was "completely destroyed," and said:

"The devastating explosion extended over a radius of several hundred yards.

"A technical school near the factory partly collapsed from the blast of the explosion. The Tessenderloo telephone exchange has been put out of action. A number of houses have been destroyed or damaged.

"As the explosion occurred when the factory and school were full, the number of casualties is high.

"Rescue work was begun immediately by German army detachments, and by rescue squads from the Kempenland coalfield. On Thursday evening this work still was in progress."

Canadian Scots Want More Men In Reserve Unit

For men with the necessary qualifications the 3rd Battalion, The Canadian Scottish Regiment (Reserve), offers a splendid opportunity for army training, Lieut.-Col. F. Brooke Stephenson, "O.C.," pointed out yesterday.

Many more men are required to bring the unit up to strength, Colonel Stephenson said in explaining that young men, as well as those too old to enlist in the active forces, are eligible. The unit is particularly desirous of enlisting men from sixteen to nineteen years, who are not yet of age for the active army.

"While these men are waiting to enlist in the active force, we can give them excellent training," said Colonel Stephenson. "We now have the very best instructors obtainable and lots of equipment."

Already a large number of officers and other ranks have been supplied by the 3rd Scottish to the active army, the officer commanding said.

Canadians Listed as Heroes of Air Battle Over Bay of Bengal

Squadron Leader Birchell and Warrant Officer Onyett Cited for Action on Easter Sunday—Both Missing—Helped Save Colombo

LONDON, May 1 (CP).—Squadron Leader L. J. Birchell, Saint John, N.B., and Warrant Officer G. C. Onyett, Hunter Isle, Frontenac County, Ont., were named today as among Canada's air heroes who helped thwart the all-out Japanese air attack on Colombo, Ceylon, April 5.

Both were listed as "missing in flying battle," which tells the story of an epic last flight over the Bay of Bengal when they joined battle with a large Japanese force of raiding planes.

The flight was termed officially "one of the greatest achievements of Canadian flyers in the present war."

WARNED DEFENDERS

The two Canadians were part of an air crew which first sighted the Japanese aircraft carrier fleet and were able to warn Colombo's defenders to prepare a hot reception.

The world already has been told the story of the Japanese attack—how seventy-five planes swooped on Colombo, of which twenty-seven were destroyed and five probably destroyed—but the heroes had not been named until now.

The Canadians' warning was held mainly responsible for success of Colombo's defence on this Easter Sunday, 1942.

Birchell had only just arrived in Ceylon. Many of his flying colleagues had no time to get acquainted before he captained a flying boat routine patrol, from which he did not return.

But he and Onyette were able to flash back the electrifying words: "Jap fleet sighted."

Silence followed the fateful message.

No other message ever came from Birchell and Onyette. Searching flyers found no trace of them.

ENLISTED IN R.C.A.F.

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP)—Squadron Leader L. J. Birchell, described in London today as one of Canada's air heroes who helped thwart Japan's air attack on Colombo, Ceylon, April , was identified today by Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters as a member of the R.C.A.F. attached to the Royal Air Force for service.

Squadron Leader Birchell enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in July, 1937, and went overseas December 8, 1941. Before leaving Canada he was at No. 2 Training Command, Winnipeg, where his widow lives.

COLEMAN BECOMES HEAD OF RAILWAY

of Irish descent, who is sixty-three. Both men came from small Ontario towns—Sir Edward from Thorold and Mr. Coleman from Carleton Place.

Mr. Coleman began his business life at a $12 a month job as tallyman in a lumber yard. At the age of eighteen he was city editor of The Belleville Intelligencer, and two years later joined the C.P.R. as a clerk at Fort William, Ont.

Promotions followed until 1918, less than twenty years after joining the company, when he became vice-president of the Western lines. Sixteen years later he became vice-president of the whole system and first executive after Sir Edward.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The official announcement said:

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company held today, Sir Edward Beatty, chairman and president, tendered his resignation because of the state of his health.

"Sir Edward was stricken with illness in March, 1941, brought about largely by over-exertion and too close application to his multifarious duties and activities. There has been a marked improvement in recent months, and that improvement, happily, is being maintained; but his doctors have advised him the early and complete recovery can be reached only if he diverts himself of some of his burdens and responsibilities. The directors received his decision with deep regret, but agreed that he should not be expected to prejudice his chance of recovery. At their request he will continue to act as chairman of the company, and thus be available for counsel at all times.

PRAISED FOR WORK

"The directors placed on record their appreciation of the outstanding work Sir Edward performed as president during the past twenty-four years. He brought to the service of the company and its shareholders a rare combination of gifts and qualities, which enabled him to inspire the whole organization with his own zeal and his own devotion to the interests of the property. He was responsible for many improvements in facilities and service; for the rebuilding of the company's mercantile fleet on a scale which made it a source of pride to all Canadians, and he enhanced and enlarged the position of the company in the confidence and regard of the people it serves throughout the world. His administration will be memorable in the history of the company.

FIFTH PRESIDENT

"Mr. D'Alton C. Coleman was elected president of the company, Mr. Coleman joined the company in 1899, and after serving it in various parts of the country as an officer, was elected a director and vice-president in 1934. He is the fifth to hold the office of president since the formation of the company in 1881, and like his immediate predecessor, was born and educated in Canada."

Sir Edward graduated to "the presidency of the company from the law department in 1918, when he was a week under forty-one.

During his tenure in office the railway expanded to become known as the world's greatest privately-owned transportation system. Under him Canadian Pacific developed railway, shipping, telegraph and hotel services with expenditures of many millions of dollars.

SHAUGHNESSY CHOICE

When Lord Shaughnessy retired from the presidency he offered the post to Sir Edward, who at first refused. Shaughnessy is reported to have exclaimed: "My God, Beatty, do you want to be a mere lawyer all your life?" Sir Edward put aside an ambition of becoming a judge and accepted.

Sir Edward was an exponent of a unification programme for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. He wanted the unification to be under private operation. The Government decided for co-operation but with each company maintaining its own management.

Mr. Coleman has many interests in the business world. He is president of the Dominion Atlantic Railway in Nova Scotia, president of the Quebec Central Railway, president of Eastern Abattoirs, Ltd., vice-president of the Pennsylvania-Ontario Transportations Company, of the Toronto Terminals Railway Company, and of the Vancouver Hotel Company. He is a director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York, and also of the Canadian Marconi Company. He is a member of the committee of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Premier Greets Governor of Alaska

PREMIER John Hart (left) is pictured welcoming E. H. Gruening, Governor of Alaska (right) to British Columbia, as Mr. Gruening arrived here Thursday afternoon by chartered Ginger Coote Airways plane from Vancouver for what he described as a "social call" upon Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward. Mr. Gruening, who was accompanied by J. W. Carey and Glen Carrington, representing the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, dined with his party at Government House, Thursday evening, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Woodward, when other guests were Premier Hart and Arthur Dixon, deputy minister of Public Works for British Columbia. Mr. Woodward, Mr. Hart and Governor Gruening talked unofficially of the road now being pushed through the province to link the United States with Alaska.

FRENCH COAST PORTS POUNDED

this side as the late day raiders, flying at altitudes between 20,000 and 30,000 feet, filled the sky between Calais and Dungeness, Kent.

The R.A.F. fighter formations began their offensive early in the evening and at one time observers at a southeast English coast town said the R.A.F. was "all over the Channel in an almost solid bank from 20,000 down to about 8,000." Anti-aircraft shell bursts could be seen over Calais and Boulogne areas.

Britons, meanwhile, got cheering word that their defences against the Nazi reprisal raids are growing sharper all the time. Home Secretary Herbert Morrison announced that ten of thirty-nine German raiders over Britain last night and early today were shot down by night fighters and anti-aircraft batteries. This percentage was a record for a single night.

ATTACK ST. OMER

The late afternoon attacks, carried out by fighter-escorted Boston bombers and bomb-carrying Hurricanes, were made on the station and railway yards at St. Omer, Calais and other targets.

Commenting on the reported Nazi willingness to call quits in the aerial war, one informant gave this response:

"We are going after those blighters wherever they are and at every chance we get, and that is final."

He referred specifically to a Berlin dispatch to the Swiss Journal de Geneve as reprinted by The London Daily Mail. It said:

"It is semi-officially stated here that Germany will call off the bombing of English towns if the R.A.F. will change its methods of bombing German cities. The present bombing duel is highly unpopular with the German people."

Home Secretary Morrison declared in a speech at Shoreditch that Hitler's "guidebook blitz" bombings of Britain's historical monuments were the "frenzied blows of a mad lout who, stung by the carefully timed and aimed blows of a cool and skilful opponent, loses all self control and runs amok."

HITLER'S FAILURE

"What he tried to do and failed to do with overwhelming superiority in the night sky a year ago, he cannot hope to do now that his resources are scattered," Mr. Morrison said.

"The cry of German propagandists that it is up to us to call off our raids to save ourselves shows they know this very well."

"We aren't going to be bamboozled," the Home Secretary said. "Bombing by the R.A.F. will go through to the end with 100 per cent strength.

"The only way the German people can stop the air offensive is to overthrow their Government. If they won't do it, we will for them."

BAGS A DORNIER

LONDON, May 1 (CP). — Wing Comdr. Max Aitken, Lord Beaverbrook's son, in leading a Beaufighter squadron against German raiders over England last night, shot down a Dornier 217, one of the latest type German bombers.

Aitken, whose squadron shot down four raiders during the night, sighted the Dornier seventy or eighty miles out to sea and shot off the starboard wing from such close range that wreckage struck his Beaufighter.

"I was about 8,000 feet up and going pretty fast," he said. "The Dornier was at about 500 feet and I had to make several circles before I could get down to his height. I picked him up again and shot him down into the sea when we were both at 300 feet.

WRECKAGE FLIES

"My fire blew off his starboard wing and as I was chasing him so closely wreckage flew back and struck my Beaufighter. I thought at first it had damaged the engine but after we had landed it was found it had only struck the propeller.

"I wish I had known that at the time because as I was returning I came up with another Hun—in fact we very nearly collided with each other, for he went smack underneath my nose as he was beating it for home.

"I could have turned and caught him but, not knowing what damage might have been done to my port engine, I had to let him go."

A Czech pilot in Aitken's squadron destroyed two Heinkel 111's out at sea and shared with another pilot of the same squadron in the destruction of a Dornier 217.

An English pilot in a Canadian night fighter squadron got a Junkers off the northeast coast.

"I gave him a two seconds' burst and received some ineffective return fire," he said. "Closing in, I passed over the top of the port wing of the Junkers and observed the bright white stripes on its fuselage. It then burst into flames, starting a vertical dive, and broke in half."

CANADIANS SCORE

LONDON, May 1 (CP)—Sergeant George Beurling, Montreal Spitfire pilot, destroyed a Focke-Wulf 190 in a dogfight 20,000 feet over Calais today.

The tousle-haired airman tackled one of sixteen Focke-Wulfs engaged by the R.A.F. squadron to which he was recently posted.

The squadron's English commander reported Beurling gave the Nazi a "short burst. It broke up in the air. I didn't see the pilot bail out."

Another Canadian pilot, who was not named, was credited by the Air Ministry News Service with damaging another FW190 over Le Havre. The enemy craft fell after a flame enveloped the cockpit.

It was claimed only as damaged, the news service said, because the "Canadians couldn't wait to see it crash."

Evans, forty-one, Canadian Armored Corps, to rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and appointed a technical staff officer, 1st grade; Capt. G. E. Morris, forty-two, Royal Canadian Artillery, to rank of Major.

LONG IN SERVICE

Brigadier Mortimore, director of pay services since November, 1938, first was appointed to a commission as a lieutenant in the 7th Regiment of Fusiliers, London, Ont., in 1907 and was promoted to captain in 1911. He served overseas from September, 1915, to July, 1918, was promoted to major in 1919 and was mentioned in dispatches.

On his return to Canada he was appointed to the permanent force with rank of major in the pay corps, and from 1920 to 1926 was district paymaster, Military District No. 1 (London, Ont.). Then he was appointed assistant director of pay services at Ottawa and in 1929 was promoted to lieutenant-colonel. He was promoted to colonel in 1938 when he became director of pay services.

Brigadier Howard, born at Toronto, went to Royal Military College in 1912 and was commissioned in the Canadian Ordnance Corps in the first Great War. He first was posted to No. 10 detachment at Winnipeg and was promoted to captain in 1916. After the war he served as ordnance officer of M.D. No. 6 (Halifax), and inspecting ordnance officer for both M.D. 6 and M.D. 7 (Saint John, N.B.).

reached at the meeting "on the further conduct of the war by the two nations in both political and military spheres," qualified observers saw evidences that the Salzburg conference ranked as probably the most important that Hitler and Mussolini have ever had.

This, it was pointed out, is the first time they have come together after publicly alluding to the sharp need for greater discipline and morale on the home front.

In the matter of military numbers the Axis position is regarded as even more serious than disaffection at home, to whatever degree the latter may exist.

RESERVES ARE LACKING

Hitler has told the Germans how close the German Army came to disaster in the Winter. Reserve divisions, intended for Spring, were thrown into the Russian battle in January. Far fewer new divisions than expected enrolled in Germany, Italy and especially in the Balkan countries. Bulgaria, for instance, provided but three or four divisions, instead of ten expected, and these were sent to Serbia to relieve German units.

The war of nerves over the possibility of Allied invasion in the West is keeping more divisions along the Atlantic Coast than otherwise would be needed.

On the Axis home front, rumors of a sweeping political change in Italy and of a possible purge in Germany have been heard here since Hitler's Sunday speech.

More frequently than before, Axis dispatches tell of persons imprisoned or executed for hoarding, violating food restrictions and, in some cases, sabotage.

REGRESSION OF ENTHUSIASM

All this seems to add up, for the present at least, to a situation of war nerves and regression of enthusiasm in the Axis nations. Yet the fact that both Germans and Italians are tired of war is unlikely to develop into any stupendous political crisis in the near future, informed foreign observers feel.

There have been consistent reports of unofficial overtures toward peace. Talks were begun from the Axis side three weeks ago, and foreign diplomatic sources believed they were unsuccessful.

Nevertheless, some informants have it that an influential group of Axis men still is sounding out the chances of Britain accepting a peace which would permit a more intense campaign against Russia.

FULL STEAM AHEAD?

Whatever importance is attached by the Government to last Monday's plebiscite should soon become apparent, the sooner the better. Since the people of Canada have given a verdict in favor of total war thy have the right to know, without any delay, when the country will be put on a total war basis. Although the Prime Minister, in somewhat equivocal fashion, in his last broadcast on the plebiscite, said that in the decision to be rendered conscription for overseas service was not an issue, that, and that only, held the stage from the public viewpoint. It was that issue that was stressed by Mr. Mackenzie King's Ministers in what they had to say in the campaign. Conscription for overseas service was the dominant note throughout the Press of the country. It was the point emphasized by those leaders of opposition groups in the House of Commons in their radio addresses on the subject. It was against conscription for overseas service that Quebec as a whole registered a negative vote.

It is true that this issue was not mentioned specifically in the wording of the plebiscite, that reference to the people which asked that the Government should be exonerated from past commitments. No one has yet said what past commitments the Government made against engaging in total war other than giving a pre-election pledge that conscription for overseas service would not be introduced. In fact, the Prime Minister himself went so far as to say it would never be introduced while he was in power. So, since that was the sole commitment from which relief was sought through the plebiscite, it is logical to ask when will the people's verdict be put into force?

In a recent broadcast the Prime Minister told the people of Canada that Germany and Japan are staking everything on 1942. He said: "From every continent and every ocean the call continues to come for more planes, more tanks, more munitions, more ships, more food, more fighting men." This, according to Mr. King, is the eleventh hour. His Government may well be expected, now it has a mandate, to move impressively and directly in the man-power issue since he is persuaded that the call is coming from all battlefronts for more fighting men. In very truth, of course, the time for this country to have commenced organizing on the fullest scale to meet the challenge of this crucial year was two and a half years ago. Now much may be done, but whatever is to be done in marshalling new man-power for fighting where the fighting is cannot prove really effective for many months to come as it takes a year at least to train men fully for the strenuous character of present-day warfare.

This is a crucial year in the war, but so will next year be as well, and most of what Canada can do under her new mandate for total war will not be in evidence until 1943. The time is far spent when any country engaged in such a struggle as the present one should still be hesitating about courses of action to bring its full strength to bear, yet that is exactly what is happening at Ottawa, even since the result of last Monday's plebiscite became known. Voluntary recruiting is again lagging. Every month or so reinforcements have to be sent overseas to keep the Canadian Active Service Corps in England up to strength, for that corps continues to weed out those who are not proving fit for battle, and sending others back to Canada to give instruction to the troops in training here. This process goes on all the time while fewer recruits are volunteering for service overseas. Even now, if it should happn—as it will happen before long—that the Canadian force in England were launched into battle there is no assurance, with the present reservoir of replacements, that it could be kept up to full strength.

These are some of the considerations that call for speedy action on the part of the Government to implement the people's verdict on the plebiscite, which is a verdict for total war. So long as there is any diminution in the mobilization of her man-power and her other resources for the prosecution of her part in this world struggle Canada rests under the imputation of doing too little. No more excuses about party pledges against total war can be made by the Government at Ottawa. It has a mandate to go ahead full steam. If it fails now in this particular its own political fate should count for nothing in the balance with the fate of the country.

C.P.R. HAS NEW PRESIDENT

Sir Edward Beatty, due to ill health, has resigned as President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company but will remain in office as chairman of the Board of Directors of that great transcontinental company. He is succeeded as president by Mr. D. C. Coleman, who has been first vice-president for several years past. There will be much sympathy expressed throughout the Dominion, and much farther afield as well, that Sir Edward should have been compelled to reach this decision for he has established a high place for himself among the transportation officials of the world. Ever since the resignation of the late Lord Shaughnessy he has enjoyed the office and under his administration the C.P.R. has maintained and added to a reputation for efficiency, initiative, and vision that has placed it among the leading industries of its kind.

Up to the time that ill health overtook him Sir Edward Beatty was not only a great individual asset to the transportation life of the Dominion but a first rate citizen as well in every respect. His outstanding merit was recognized by the British Government shortly after the outbreak of war when he was appointed that Government's representative in this country of the British Ministry of War Transport. He has interested himself in many phases of development in the Dominion, not only in connection with the ramifications of the C.P.R. but also in others outside the sphere of his industrial career. To whatever purpose he has devoted himself he has brought that dynamic energy and inspiration that he has shown as a railway executive. The C.P.R. owes much to him; so does Canada. He has inscribed his name in the history of the Dominion as one of the great builders of his time.

Mr. Coleman, who succeeds Sir Edward, was the logical choice because of his lengthy experience in transportation matters and because he has graduated upwards by outstanding ability, and has been, for several years, the president's right hand man. In the early years of his career, and before turning his thoughts to transportation, Mr. Coleman was a newspaperman and it has been an experience which he never regretted. He began in that role to see the wider horizons of life and to acquire a thirst for information of a diversified character. Among officials of the company he has long been regarded as the best public speaker, due to his fund of knowledge, both on railway and other matters. Like Sir Edward, he is keenly interested in all phases of Canadian life and excellently informed on world affairs. He will bring to bear on his new duties a thorough training in the tasks that devolve on such a high office and it is undoubted that the C.P.R. will continue to grow and flourish under his capable direction.

CENSORSHIP AND RUMORS

It is an excellent thing that officers in the Services, politicians and others should remind people from time to time that it is unwise to listen to and spread rumors relating to the war. No doubt, often enough, such rumors, if they are deleterious to the war effort of the country where they originate, are disseminated by agents of the enemy. Other rumor-mongers assist the enemy by giving them more widespread pubicity. The matter goes beyond this. Actual happenings, which it is considered unwise to make known officially, come to the knowledge of many persons and they talk about them freely among themselves with the information spreading in an ever-widening circle. One of the most impossible of things is to keep people tight-lipped in matters of this kind. It is for both politicians and the Services themselves to consider how far their system of censorship is responsible for promoting and disseminating rumors. This angle is discussed by a writer in Harper's Magazine, New York, who says:

"Military men admonish us not to circulate or believe rumors; but the human mind abhors a vacuum and rumors are what it fills with when facts are not provided. War rumors are, as the generals and admirals assure us, exceedingly dangerous. They will in general follow one of two paths; they will be rumors of wishfulness or they will be rumors of fear. Denied the fullest possible information about the course of the war, we are certain to imagine a course that falsifies the reality in one way or the other. We are going to invent imaginary victories or we are going to invent imaginary defeats. Imaginary defeats help to induce a state of mind exceedingly helpful to the enemy, the conviction of helplessness, fatalism, and defeat, which it is his first interest to produce. But imaginary victories are even more dangerous because more immediately effective. They reduce vigilance, beget over-confidence, retard the will, and insure a disastrous reaction when unpleasant facts break through. Such phantasies are the product of rumor. There is one certain antidote to rumor. It is the democratic antidote. The Administration (United States) has shown that it means what it says about democracy. It is time that the military began to prove that they do, too."

CHILDREN OF THE MOTHERING CLOUDS

(Of the Lads in Grey)

Children of the mothering clouds, e'en of those
That sentinel the night with streaks of grey;
Companion of the stars with whom they play;
Teasing the moody darkness where it shows;
And laugh to see the storm give back their blows;
Laugh with the fickle sun of the new day,
And fold the arms of rainbows round the way
Where lovely April comes with her first rose.

Yea, children all, that hold an Empire's trust;
The grey hawks of the mountain-land and sea;
The gay, grim lads that turn the moon to rust
By their spilled blood; their rich outpour-ed youth,
As they win through, win through to victory
The victory of honor, love and truth.

—Dudley H. Anderson.

RISE, FOR THE DAY IS PASSING

Rise for the day is passing,
And you lie dreaming on;
The others have buckled their armor
And forth to the fight are gone.
A place in the ranks awaits you,
Each man has some part to play;
The past and the future are nothing
In the face of the stern today.

Rise! from your dreams of the future,
Of gaining some hard-fought field,
Of storming some airy fortress,
Or bidding some giant yield.
Your future has deeds of glory,
Of honor (God grant it may),
But your arm will never be stronger,
Or the need so great as today.

Rise! for the day is passing,
The sound that you scarcely hear
Is the enemy marching to battle—
Arise! for the foe is here!
Stay not to sharpen your weapons,
Or the hour will strike at last
When, from dreams of a coming battle,
You make wake to find it past.

—Adelaide Anne Proctor.

WINGED VICTORY

Britannia
Fronting the lifting sea you stand
Wind-sculptured on a jut of land,
Your open-floating cloak unfurled,
A banner of the turning world.
Defiance lights your dauntless face
Recalling Her of Samothrace.

Not clouds that in procession pass,
Nor idle flower amid the grass,
Nor late storm-staggered gull
Wing-balanced on the lull,
Nor thunderous salvoes of the deep
None, none has known you weep.

Yet weep you could for those gone down,
Brave sons of great and small renown,
But barren woe is not your part,
Your grief is confined in your heart . . .
Staid scion of a stoic race,
Recalling Her of Samothrace:
Britannia!

—Maurice Burke in The London Saturday Times.

NAVAL SUPERIORITY

"The Marquis de Lafayette," Washington wrote in July, 1780, "will be pleased to communicate the following general ideas to Count de Rochambeau and the Chevalier de Ternay as the sentiments of the undersigned. In any operation, and under all circumstances, a decisive naval superiority is to be considered as a fundamental principle, and the basis upon which every hope of success must ultimately depend."—F. S. Oliver: "Life of Alexander Hamilton."

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

If you really wish to see something new, interesting and ripe with genuine promise for the future, you ought not to miss a small but nicely chosen exhibition at the northeast corner of the main floor of the Provincial Museum of Natural History. There, for the first ten days in May, [illegible] sign, drawing and painting gathered from seven Indian schools of the province will remain on display. Some people shrug their shoulders at a school exhibit, and walk along; but nobody is going to do that to this particular display. It is arresting.

Included in the school exhibit there is the individual work of maturer minds, some of which at least ought to be drawn to the attention of the Audobon Society. In this category are several exhibits by Francis Baptiste (Sis-hu-lk), a promising young artist of the Inkameep Reserve, at Oliver, B.C., whose horses are alive and real, and whose wild birds are something to linger over in humble satisfaction and gratitude. One of the pieces—Canada geese in full flight—would stop anybody, wherever shown. A painting on buckskin by Johnny Stalkia (Thith-Hak-Kay), of the same reservation, won the bronze star when shown at an Empire exhibition in London in 1940.

There is far more to the exhibition than the work of two young artists, for here the Indian schools of the province are saying something to the rest of us, something that is worth hearing. The legend of the Thunderbird and the Whale, the tug-of-war between the animals of the forest, the ceremonial masks and dances of the not-so-long-ago, are all here, and they have their stories to tell. The vibrant wild life of the forest is here, too, as it used to be in the days before man came. Wild horses that have never known bit, saddle or bridle, pound the range.

There is something else here, too; and I think it is infinitely more precious. A considerable number of young Indian boys and girls, between the ages of ten and fourteen for the most part, are being taught to express in a natural and direct manner the truth that they see. Nature gave these young people the ability to observe. On paper and buckskin, they are learning how to set it down in a manner that can be conveyed to all others. There is direct and genuine transmission here, and all grades of skill, from the immature to the completely flowering. A little of that would be true of any school exhibition; but, here with seven Indian schools, there is the added attraction of an original culture that is not our own.

Participating in the exhibition, and with a wealth of color, originality and enterprise, are the Songhees Indian Day School, at Victoria; St Catherine's School, Duncan; Christie Indian School, Kakawis; Tsartlip Indian School, Brentwood Bay; Kootenay Residential School, Cranbrook; Seton Lake School, Shalath; and the Inkameep School at Oliver. To their instructors should go the sincere thanks of the people of British Columbia. It is a magnificent thing to open new windows before growing minds. The exhibition was arranged by the Society for the Furtherance of British Columbia Indian Arts and Crafts, in conjunction with the Provincial Museum of Natural History; and is its own best reason for existence.

If you liked the three little birds that flew backwards and forwards over the cake-making in Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs; if you like to see mallards and geese on the wing as they really are in flight; if, in short, you would be taken out of yourself and charmed by the wild life of the range and forest, do not miss seeing the northeast corner of the main floor of the Provincial Museum within the next nine days. If you bring to it an open and inquiring mind, you will be abundantly repaid; and you will carry away some such impressions as the foregoing, though no doubt much fuller, more rounded out and complete. If you have time for nothing else, see at least the Canada geese in flight. They live. They fairly honk!

TECHNICALITIES ARE CAUSING DELAY IN PLAN FOR SHELTERS

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP)—Legal technicalities are holding up efforts to establish public air raid shelters in downtown Vancouver.

Six buildings suitable for shelters have been inspected by Sgt. H. P. Hughes, of the British Columbia Police A.R.P. division and the written permission obtained from building owners or agents to use the structures.

But, Mayor J. W. Cornett, A.R.P. director, said today, responsibility has not been fixed in case the buildings are damaged by the public while they are in use as shelters.

The Observation Car

By G.B.

Note from an "Old Sweat" who spent his twenty-first birthday in front line trenches in 1914: "Several times I have been asked why so many officers and soldiers change to civvies when off duty in the evening. The answer is simple. Just imagine an officer walking along a street with his wife or girl friend hanging on one arm and gloves and cane in the other hand. Practically every six feet he has to let go of the girl or gloves and cane to acknowledge a salute from a member of the navy, army, air force or one of the new women's auxiliaries. Privates, aircraftmen, seamen and others often find themselves in the same position. Civilians often comment how ridiculous the whole thing seems, and even officers have been heard to make the same remarks. We call Canada a democratic nation. Let us be even more democratic and make saluting compulsory only on parades, ceremonial drills or official public functions. I often wonder about families where the son, for instance, is a private and the father an army captain. Before the captain could take his wife and son to a picture show or dinner at a restaurant, both would have to change to civilian clothing, because if both were in uniform the captain could not be seen in company with the private." A member of the air force Up-Oozi is due for a happy surprise when he receives a gold bracelet and identification disk from Beverley. Welded to the disk is a five-cent coin so the flyer will always have money on his person. From an article in Pic entitled "What Is an Honest Politician?" "To be honest is to be great. Pure honesty does not exist, and will not as long as human beings occupy this earth. That man who sees things as they are and not as he wishes them to be, who willingly bares his soul for the world to appraise, who recognizes the right of other pebbles to the beach, who will not squeeze his power to the disadvantage of the people, is semi-honest."

A.R.P. Activities

District 2bs, Fernwood—All wardens are requested to attend a meeting at Victoria High School on Monday at 8 p.m., when Captain Proudfoot will give an address.

District 4a—A successful meeting was held at the Victoria West School Mrs. R. Barclay-Ross, commandante for the Met. 4a, A.R.P. Division, with of the Canadian Auxiliary Territorial Service, in the chair. Sector leaders and patrol leaders were appointed. W. J. Gawne was put in charge of the motorcycle and messenger squad, and Mrs. Nina Lewis was enrolled as ambulance driver. Courses of instruction were outlined and new wardens enrolled. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in the Domestic Science Building. All wardens are requested to attend.

ORANGES AND LEMONS

Back to the silence whence of old they came,
Into the void they erstwhile tuneful filled,
With joyous carillon and lilting rhyme
Adown the ages once upon a time,
Those London bells are vanished; silvery tones,
Molten fantastically to shapeless lump.
With Hyde Park railings, posts that were cannon once,
Frypans and saucepans—all the other things.

But if St. Clement's chimes, the clangour of Bow Bells,
Were by some alchemic process known of old,
Transmuted into devastating gun;
The hurtling shell belched from its gaping mouth
And iron throttle, once a clapper held:
Would sing afresh the merry tune, for sure,
Reprisal for the murder of a rhyme
That had all cvhildren romping through the game.

—Arthur Warren,
CJVI Radio Station.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of May 2, 1892)

General Leave—There is a general leave on the Champion and the Warspite till Saturday morning, 7 o'clock. Jack Tar will make the most of his opportunity and enjoy himself.

Lost Their Little One—Last night, the parents of a little boy, three years of age, were searching for him high and low. He strayed away from home early in the evening, and the search instituted, last night, was not successful, as far as is known.

Lost a Finger—Dr. A. H. Baker, dentist of this city, wears his right hand in a sling just now and is minus a finger as the result of an accident that befel him at Goldstream. He was attempting to put a halter on a restive young horse, when the latter reared and plunged. At the same instant the second finger of his right hand caught in an accidentally formed slip-knot, which, tightening, pinched off the finger close to the first joint. Doctors Milne and Fraser dressed the injured hand but nothing could save the finger.

SAANICH'S SCHOOLS

Sir,—In answer to the statements made recently by Reeve Warren anent conditions in the Saanich schools, may we be permitted to answer him?

He stated a [illegible] one week and sagging in another week. Quite right. The floor in question was quite all right one week about twenty-five years ago, but in a recent week it was sagging.

He stated that the carbon lamps found in use in the Cedar Hill School were no doubt a blunder. Quite right. There are very many similar blunders in Saanich schools. A meter reading taken by a competent committee of the light in the rooms of Cloverdale School showed 3 and 4 candle power reading on some desks; 15 candle power is considered an absolute minimum.

He stated the building inspector estimates the cost of putting the Lake Hill School in shape at $6,700. The association has firm estimates for the necessary work, by responsible contractors, and could have the work done for $4,300.

With regard to the great increase in the money spent in Saanich schools in the last few years, this is most misleading unless two other factors are considered in conjunction with it.

One factor is the tremendous increase in the population of Saanich in the last few years. Note the great number of building permits taken out in Saanich in the last few years. These are permanent, not transient residents. The second factor is the rise in price of all commodities to which no doubt most of readers can ruefully testify. I would ask our readers if their budget of a few years ago is today adequate for their needs. When it comes to patriotism we yield nothing to anyone, but we feel the children of today will need all the education they can get in the chaotic world they will take over from us.

GRATITUDE

Sir,—Would you care to insert the enclosed paragraphs in The Colonist, which I have just received from the wife of the vicar of a heavily-bombed parish in London. She first asks me if I can tell her where "those marvellously useful little boxes" that I had sent her, came from. So many people had asked her to find out. "We loved them, but never see them now." Then goes on to relate:

"What Canada and the States have done for this little island! How shall we ever show them how grateful we really are? I certainly do. Victoria may never know what it ids really mean. The clothes Canada has sent us have been marvelous. We have clothed 4,050 war-damaged families and maternity cases. Isn't that wonderful for Canada to have done for us? The layettes ar simply beautiful. How the mothers love and appreciate them you cannot imagine."

A.R.P. PREPAREDNESS

Sir,—Since assuming my duties as district warden for the James Bay 3C Area, I have been struck by the number of reports from my wardens that residents on their beats have as yet failed to provide themselves with sand and blackout screens or take any of the other simple precautions recommended for their own protection.

These people would, doubtless, be the first to criticize unpreparedness in others.

Sand has been provided by the city and dumped at points throughout the district for the greater convenience of residents.

Where invalid or aged persons are unable to carry a sufficient quantity of sand to their homes they will be willingly assisted by the warden service, but this courtesy cannot be extended to able-bodied citizens.

Your district warden wishes to point out that your greatest measure of protection against air raids is a fully equipped and adequate fighting force to prevent invasion.

Our duty as citizens and the whole object of civil protection organization is to take what measures we can for our own protection in the event of air raids in order that the full and unhindered effort of our Government and military force may be devoted to the war effort.

Your co-operation assists your country. Your indifference is a menace to yourself and your neighbors.

KENNETH J. OLDFIELD,
District Warden 3C, 204 Superior Street, Victoria, B.C., May 1, 1942.

MARKET CONTROL AND THE POOR POTATO

Sir,—Having read many dissertations in the press anent the poor old inoffensive potato, I thought that, as the farmer of 126 acres in North Saanich, I might add my quota, as I am strongly in favor of a "free potato," as well as a Free France and no Nazi control.

First of all, two of my most worthy neighbors were treated as criminal malefactors for alleged "bootlegging" of potatoes—fancy the dear old potato being the cause of a summons, a fine and a suspended sentence. This procedure is not just British.

Secondly, since the inauguration of the market control, seed potatoes are not to be bought locally, as most of us farmers strongly object to being controlled out of existence. We do not like Nosey Parkers poking about our farms demanding to know our crop acreage and even to inspect our books . . . again not quite British.

Recently I was asked to attend a meeting of the Saanich Potato Growers at Keating. I found six members of the association legislating for some 500 other farmers. Strange to say most of the said six farmed on peaty bottom land where the modern streamlined potato flourished without the old-fashioned knobs and bumps and so passed the beauty specialists of the Control Board. No mention need be made of the water content of the said buxom tubers.

When asked to join the association I said that I was Scotch enough never to enter a dark room without putting on a lights and as a simple farmer I would like the answer to three simple questions.

I was told that as I was not a potato grower; that is to say, had not paid my dues and sold ten sacks of potatoes, my questions could not be answered.

Thinking that every farmer was a potential potato grower, and that I had run into a meeting of the Hush Hush Fraternity of the Mystic Tuber, I slunk out into the outer darkness pondering many things in my mind that were anything but favorable to the Control Board of potatoes or the control of any other farm produce.

The only people to benefit so far have been certain firms of lawyers which have conducted appeals and reappeals ad lib.

I am delighted to see that Mayor McGavin has joined the forces of the United Farmers and so we may expect the support of his heavy artillery, not to mention the timely aid of some of the municipal spitfires.

A. D. MACDONALD.

Colwood Residents Make Presentation

A large crowd enjoyed the pot luck supper and programme of songs, instrumental music and dances contributed by Mrs. N. Bertucci's "Happy Canucks" and pupils of Miss Wynne Shaw in aid of the war work fund of the Colwood Women's Institute on Thursday evening in the Colwood Hall. The entertainment had been convened by Mrs. George Piercy, who initiated the "pot luck" suppers and luncheons some time ago and has been the convener of these successful events ever since and who is now leaving the district.

At the close of the programme Rev. P. J. Disney spoke in appreciation of the work done by Mr. and Mrs. Piercy and of the regret of the community that they were leaving after residing there for sixteen years. Two chairs and a smoking set were presented to Mr and Mrs. Piercy by Messrs. J. Hopwood and E. Pratt, representing the district. Little Merle Slater presented Mrs Piercy with a dainty corsage bouquet.

The Wilfert Social Club, now defunct, presented Mrs. H. Parker with the balance of the funds belonging to that organization to help the hall insurance.

Gives Warning of Possible Invasion

LONDON, May 1 (CP)—General Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, warned today in a speech at Johannesburg the Japanese may attempt an invasion of South Africa by way of the Indian Ocean, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. He urged South Africans to prepare for "an all-out effort" against attack.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Speak little and well if you wish to be considered as possessing merit.

West opened the nine of clubs. East cashed the ace and king and continued with the jack. Declarer's queen was ruffed away with the spade nine by West and the nine of hearts was returned. Declarer won with the king and immediately led a low spade to dummy's ace. When West showed out, ten cards of East's original holding became known, that is, it was established that he had started with five clubs, four spades, and at least one heart. (The importance of this information will become clear in a moment.) Declarer drew East's trumps, then led his remaining heart to dummy's ace. East again followed suit, thus marking himself with at least two hearts originally.

Now, although declarer had no real need to ruff dummy's five of hearts (since his remaining trump would be good in any event) he nevertheless made that play for a good and sufficient reason. He was highly interested in finding out whether East would follow suit to this trick. As may be seen, East actually had a third heart and now the situation became crystal clear. Declarer, upon ruffing, knew absolutely that East's original distribution had been five clubs, four spades, and at least three hearts, therefore that he could not have had more than one diamond. The diamond ace was cashed to provide against the possible singleton queen in East's hand, but when East played the seven spot, the finesse against the queen in West's hand became 100 per cent established.

Through such simple means as this can finesses often be avoided.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

SUBMARINES SINK THREE

Small Freighter and Two Tankers Blasted Off Eastern Coast

LEWES, Del., May 1 (AP).—Blasted by a single submarine torpedo, a small freighter sank within five minutes off the Atlantic coast on Tuesday and apparently carried six men to their deaths, the Fourth Naval District announced today.

Thirty-seven of the crew of forty-three, including the master, were rescued by a navy craft after drifting two hours in a lifeboat. The survivors were landed here, four suffering minor injuries. The ship's thirty-five-year-old chief officer said the underseas raider attacked without warning about 9:30 a.m. It did not surface.

Some of the missing were believed carried under by suction, after leaping from the sinking ship. Others leaped just in time.

Four, including the chief officer, managed to launch a lifeboat and picked up other survivors from the water.

The navy said the ship was four hours out of an Atlantic coast port.

HAVANA, May 1 (AP).—Cuban broadcasts reported today that two armed United States tankers engaged submarines in a running gun fight off the Cuban coast—one of them within sight of waters lining the shore—but finally were sunk.

A submarine was said to have fired almost 200 shells before sending one of the tankers to the bottom off Gibara. The captain of the tanker was quoted as saying four of his crew members were lost in the battle, and several others who were injured were brought ashore by rescue boats.

The second tanker, attacked at almost the same time, was sunk in the same vicinity, the broadcast said.

FREIGHTER LAUNCHED

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, May 1 (CP).—The Ss. Fort Chipewyan has joined Canada's growing wartime merchant fleet. The 10,000-ton vessel, launched here last night with no formality, was moved to a fitting-out dock for completion of deckworks.

Volunteering for service with the R.C.N., he was unable to pass physical requirements. He joined the Department of Transport in December, 1941, and became regional director of the Merchant Seamen's Manning Pool at Place Viger Hostel, Montreal.

CAREFUL CONSIDERATION

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP).—W. T. Burgess, secretary of the United Fishermen's Federal Union, said here today on his return from Ottawa that proposals of the union to set up a joint production board to administer the British Columbia commercial fishing industry this year, "will be given very careful consideration" by Government officials.

Under the plan, a board of canners, fishermen and Government officials would administer the entire commercial fishing industry. The canners have opposed the scheme.

BOOK TELLS NAVY STORY

Local Author Issues Volume Dealing With Esquimalt Naval Base

In a book entitled "Esquimalt Naval Base," which is now on sale locally, Major F. V. Longstaff portrays in considerable detail the ships and men of the Royal and Royal Canadian Navies identified with the development which has been going on there for almost one hundred years.

Esquimalt Naval Station, according to the book, was really established in 1837 by the appointment of a commander-in-chief (Pacific), but was not generally visited, although a port of call for naval vessels, much before 1848.

Leading up to the appointment of a commander-in-chief, the early history of the Coast from the time of the Spanish occupation is briefly sketched. The first work of a tangible character done at Esquimalt was in 1848, when several hospital huts were erected at the request of Rear Admiral Bruce, who expected to land sick and wounded, aftermath of a Siberian expedition.

Building of a drydock was considered of great importance as long ago as 1861. Quoting The Victoria British Colonist of 1861, which was agitating for a floating dock for the repairing of ships at Esquimalt, Major Longstaff tells how the paper was led to advocate the building of this dock, citing that ships had to go, at considerable expense and loss of time, to San Francisco for repairs.

Subsequently a rear admiral in command of the station implemented The Colonist's appeal for a dock, recommending Lang Cove as the best site. Politics interfered with the proposal at the time, both the Provincial and the Federal authorities being interested. Finally, the book tells us, the graving dock was eventually built and officially opened in July, 1887, a matter of twenty years after The Colonist began its campaign to have it built.

SAIL AND STEAM

Esquimalt saw the days of sail pass as motive power and the beginning and progress of steam-driven ships. A long list of Royal Navy vessels pass in review through the pages of Major Longstaff's book, which also makes numerous references to the permanent land forces of Canada stationed at Macaulay Point from time to time.

Transfer of the base from Imperial to Canadian authority and the subsequent growth of the Royal Canadian Navy takes up a large part of the book, this portion of the history of Esquimalt being set out in chronological order, which should make it a valuable reference work for the layman desiring to know something of its development.

To the student of things naval and military on the Pacific Coast of Canada, "Esquimalt Naval Base" offers a volume of knowledge which must have entailed a lot of patient labor and many months to produce.

Identify Flyers Killed in Crash Of School Plane

BRANDON, Man., May 1 (CP).—Three members of the Royal Canadian Air Force who lost their lives when a training plane attached to No. 12 Service Flying Training School crashed near here yesterday were identified today by No. 2 Command, R.C.A.F., at Winnipeg.

The victims were: Flt. Sergt. Donald R. Patenall, Calgary; Sergt. Gordon W. Burkholder, Belleville, Ont., and Cpl. Henry Francis McQuire, Cobourg, Ont.

Officials said that Flt. Sergt. Patenall, a test pilot, was piloting the plane on a routine checking flight with the other airmen as passengers when the aircraft crashed on a farm field about ten miles west of here and burst into flames. All three occupants were killed instantly. Next of kin have been notified and the bodies are being shipped to their respective homes.

Former Victorian Is Missing

WHOSE mother, Mrs. C. C. Bird, was notified by the Air Ministry, on April 28, that he was "missing as the result of air operations." Sergeant Bird was one of Captain H. Seymour-Biggs' boys and went overseas in June, 1940, to join the Royal Air Force. During recent months he had been engaged in raids over Germany. Transferred to a Stirling bomber as a wireless-gunner in the top turret of the machine he was reported missing on his first raiding trip of the machine. When young Bird left Victoria his mother lived here. She now resides in Nanaimo.

APPEALS TO MACHINISTS

Minister of Labor Asks Union to Reverse Its Decision

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP).—A meeting of the executive council of the Machinists' Union will be held tonight to consider a telegram from Labor Minister Mitchell asking the union to reverse its decision to withhold co-operation on the continuous production programme put into effect in British Columbia shipyards this week.

The Labor Minister's telegram says that the stand taken by the machinists' 700-man union is threatening to tie up schedules of 15,000 shipyard workers. All but one other union has approved the plan.

"On behalf of the Government and I am sure I may say of the Canadian people, I now appeal to you to join with the other unions whose memberships are working beside you in accepting this plan for increased production of ships," Mr. Mitchell's telegram said.

In refusing to approve the continuous production work week, the union stated that it believed the plan would not increase production.

A similar telegram has been received from Mr. Mitchell by the Blacksmiths' and Helpers' Union, a smaller shipyard organization which also has not approved the plan.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL AND CORRESPONDENT KILLED IN TAKE-OFF

MELBOURNE, May 1 (CP).—Brig.-General Harold George, United States officer whose death in an aerial accident was announced yesterday, was killed when a fighter plane "got out of control while taking off and crashed into a party which was boarding another plane, it was disclosed today. Neville Jacoby, Time and Life magazine correspondent, died with General George. The mishap was said to have taken place at an advanced Allied airfield.

A military funeral is planned Saturday for General George, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal posthumously for his execution of "seemingly impossible tasks" as commander of air forces in the defence of Bataan.

More than thirty British, American and Australian war correspondents and a group of United States army officers attended the funeral of Jacoby at a Melbourne crematorium today.

Seven women lived to see their sons become President of the United States; they were the mothers of Washington, Madison, Polk, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

INAUGURATES NEW SERVICE

Trans-Canada Extends Air Express System to St. John's, Newfoundland

MONTREAL, May 1.—Air express service between Canada and Newfoundland will be inaugurated today, according to G. E. Bellerose, general manager, Trans-Canada Air Lines express service.

The new service will be from Moncton, N.B. to St. John's, Newfoundland (Tor Bay Airport), via Sydney, N.S., and Gander, Newfoundland. There will be one trip daily. Due to the relationship of the two countries in joint defence measures the new service will benefit military and business interests alike.

"There is every indication of a steady flow of air express traffic between Canada and Newfoundland," said Mr. Bellerose.

"With the present development work being carried on in Newfoundland, the new service will undoubtedly prove a big boon to the business life of the island. In addition, the service will afford Trans-Canada Air Lines an opportunity to extend air express facilities to industries of the Cape Breton section of Nova Scotia, including Sydney, Glace Bay, New Waterford, North Sydney and Sydney Mines.

"It will also permit through movements of air express shipments between points in the United States and Newfoundland," Mr. Bellerose pointed out. "Express shipments originating at and destined to points south of the border, will be carried from and to connections with the railway express agency's air division at points along the main route of Trans-Canada Air Lines."

Moving Training School to Point In Saskatchewan

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP).—Leslie Martin, managing director of the Empire Air Training Plan in British Columbia, announced today that the Elementary Flying Training School at Boundary Bay will be moved to an undisclosed point in Saskatchewan.

Forty-five freight cars already loaded with training school equipment will start moving to Saskatchewan today, he said. Mr. Martin said the entire personnel of 314 on the school staff would be moved to the Prairies.

The present Boundary Bay School is three times the size of a normal training school. It was established as a double school and later expanded to absorb No. 8 School at Sea Island.

No Rationing of Train Travel on Canadian Roads

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP).—T. C. Lockwood, Montreal, Dominion transport controller, has advised the traffic department of the Vancouver Board of Trade that there is not likely to be any rationing of mileage for train travel in Canada.

The controller said that if it is found that civilian travel is interfering with the movement of military personnel and supplies there might be restrictions, but rationing covering the number of miles traveled was unlikely.

CONCESSION ON TAXES STUDIED

B.C. Mines Department Pleased at Federal Action on Prospecting

[illegible] pressed pleasure yesterday at the recent announcement from Ottawa concerning concessions in income and excess profits taxation to those encouraging the prospecting of war metals. Hon. Herbert Anscomb, at Winnipeg on his way to Ottawa, wired Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, in commendation of the Federal move.

At the same time, Provincial officials waited to hear the detail's of the new arrangement, as to how taxation would apply on mining enterprises other than gold properties. British Columbia, it was pointed out by Dr. J. F. Walker, deputy minister of mines, had been pressing for action along these lines. At a departmental conference held at Ottawa last year, the following resolution had been passed:

URGED REVISION

"The meeting further recommends that the proposed committee consider exemption under the Income War Tax Act and Provincial Income Tax Acts, for money spent on prospecting; the continuance of the three-year exemption of new mines, under Section 89 of the Federal statute, and the establishment of the excess profits tax as an excess profits tax and not as a super tax on the mining industry other than gold mining."

By moving in the matter of income and excess profits exemptions, the Dominion was implementing this resolution in part, it was pointed out. The net effect, however, will not be known until the application of the tax has been set out at Ottawa.

NEW METHOD

TO EXTEND RAID WARNING SYSTEM

Towns and Cities on Vancouver Island to Get Sirens, Committee Announces

VANCOUVER, May 1 (CP).—The Provincial Committee on Air Raid Precautions Communications announced today that plans are under way to extend the air raid warning siren system to include all major settlements in the coastal defence zone of the province west of the Cascade Mountains which has been declared a vulnerable area.

All major towns and settlements which have a fairly large concentration of people and which have the necessary power to operate the sirens, will be given consideration, the officials said. This would include towns on Vancouver Island such as Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Cumberland and Courtenay, northern towns such as Terrace, settlements in the Fraser Valley and all important coastal towns such as Powell River and Ocean Falls.

The officials said it was not likely, however, that the new sirens could be installed before late this Summer.

PREPARING for any emergency, a group of women of the Hollywood Crescent district have fitted up this efficient first aid post, containing a fracture bed, two single beds, two baby cots and a camp cot. Most of the furnishings have been loaned by residents of the neighborhood and to purchase a stock of canned foods and first aid supplies, the women held a telephone bridge party which realized the sum of $35. Staffed by the above group of trained nurses and first aiders, from left to right: Mrs. J. L. Hellyer, R.N.; Mrs. A. F. Davidson, Red Cross Corps; Mrs. G. B. Boyle, St. John Ambulance first aid; and Mrs. R. H. Clowes, R.N., the post is situated in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Robinson, 1845 Hollywood Crescent, and is completely ready to handle air raid casualties. It took a little more than six weeks' planning to thoroughly establish the station, and the cost was negligible in consideration of the lives it might save in the event of disaster.

More Women Are Wanted In Services

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP).—The Canadian Army wants more women and National Defence headquarters is moving to meet the demand, Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, Adjutant-General, said at a press conference today.

There are plenty of women willing to serve and they are being taken on and trained as rapidly as possible but training facilities need to be enlarged, he said.

Gen. Letson said a second women's basic training centre will be established somewhere in Western Canada. The place is not settled yet but it is hoped that when it is created the monthly intake of the women's corps will exceed 1,000.

Present capacity of the women's basic training centre at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., is 375 to 400 a month. The objective is to increase that to about 500 and get another centre of comparable size in operation.

Some 2,600 women now are serving in the army, said the adjutant-general, and the ultimate size of the corps in indefinite. It will be expanded as long as it is possible to use women to release fit men for active combatant duty.

WORK FOR TRADESWOMEN

A new departure with the corps is the decision recently taken to train 1,500 qualified tradeswomen for work with the ordnance corps.

Headquarters has a request for 500 ordnance tradeswomen to go to the Canadian Army base workshop in England and this request will be met when the women get their training.

Another overseas request is for 150 women to work at the army base laundry in England. This detachment is expected to leave at an early date as soon as buildings and equipment are ready for them overseas.

So far, the general said, the only women's army personnel sent out of Canada are those serving at the Canadian Legation in Washington.

The Women's Army Corps now is a part of the Canadian Army for all purposes and its officers receive the King's commission.

SPECIAL REGULATIONS

Women officers now will be eligible to sit on courts martial and courts of inquiry. All women's army personnel will be subject to the Army Act, the same as men, except that they may not be sentenced to death, penal servitude or imprisonment.

"We do not expect the women will commit any of the more serious offences," said General Letson.

So far, he said, over 1,900 category "A" men have been replaced by women and thus made available for overseas service. At the moment there are unfilled demands for 3,000 women from army establishments.

While active consideration has not yet been given to training women in the handling of weapons, such as anti-aircraft guns, General Letson said he sees no reason why that should not be done.

Canadian Unity Is Discussed by Women's Council

The need for ironing out the existing difficulties and barriers which prevent Canadian unity was emphasized by Dr. Sylvia Thrupp, of the department of history, University of British Columbia, principal speaker at the final session of the Women's Council Table on Thursday evening at the Central Junior High School. The subject chosen for discussion was "How Can We Promote Canadian Unity?" and at the close of Dr. Thrupp's introductory remarks, a round-table discussion took place, Misses Isabel Thomas, Hazel Sargent, Ellen Hart and Dorothy Crighton, Mesdames Sanderson-Mongin, T. G. Rayfuse, Alan Campbell and R. Rayment taking part, each contributing her ideas on some particular phase of the subject under discussion.

DR. THRUPP

The principal speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, referred to the efforts of Nazi Germany towards bringing about racial unity, and Italy's goal, which was political unity. She warned against the danger of unity built upon group sentiment and as expressed in state policies. There was a great need for a more tolerant and understanding attitude between the English-speaking and French-Canadians and upon the readiness of those living in the wealthier provinces to make certain sacrifices to insure a more equable social and economic policy for all.

INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

Reports of the first year's activities of the Council Table were reviewed earlier in the evening, and the membership had grown from thirty-three to eighty-one, Mrs. A. C. Ross said. She also told of the reading lists sent out with the assistance of Miss Margaret Clay and the staff of the Public Library. Mrs. H. Lethaby, recording secretary; Mrs. Wardley Smith, convener of the speakers' committee; Mrs. Alan Campbell, treasurer, and Miss Clay also gave reports.

On behalf of the Local Council of Women, Mrs. J. L. Gates thanked Mrs. MacLaurin for her organization and leadership of the Council Table and presented her and Dr. Thrupp, the speaker of the evening, with corsage bouquets.

Miss Clay entertained the speakers and committee at an informal reception for Dr. Thrupp at her home on Linden Avenue.

Gift of $300 Is Presented To Hospital

Red Cross Helps United Nations

The Canadian Red Cross Society has not forgotten the Allies, states Major Harold Brown, chairman of the Victoria and district campaign committee. Early last Fall, for example, it became apparent that everything possible should be done to aid the Russian Red Cross because of the tremendous casualties suffered in that country's stout resistance to the German invader. An immediate contribution of $250,000 of supplies was made from stores in Britain. More than this was needed and as the result of an appeal made last December, a total of about one million dollars has been made available for this work.

Two small hospitals have been provided for the Polish Army training in Canada, one at Owen Sound and the other at Windsor. Food parcels have been sent to Polish prisoners in Germany and for Yugoslavian prisoners as well. Dental equipment has been provided for the Czecho-Slovakian forces in Britain.

While Greece was defending herself against Italians and Germans, $25,000 of supplies were sent by the Canadian Red Cross itself, another $100,000 worth of supplies purchased for the Canadian Greek Relief Committee and $150,000 is now on hand to be spent for food, with $25,000 of dried milk sent recently.

The campaign to replenish the Canadian Red Cross funds starts on May 11. Victorians are being asked to subscribe $90,000.

PALMER—FENNELL

Masses of lilac, tulips and Calla lilies made a lovely floral setting in St. Luke's Church for the wedding of Irene Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Fennell, 1123 Reynolds Road, and Bombardier Alfred William Palmer, R.C.A., eldest son of the late Mr. E. W Palmer and Mrs. Palmer, Braefoot Road, which was solemnized by Rev. F. Pike at 8:30 o'clock last evening. Mr. Eric Edwards played the wedding music, and the vocal soloist was Miss Margaret Don, who sang "Because" as the register was being signed. Mr. Fennell gave his daughter in marriage, and she wore a white Colonial style gown with a long full skirt of net, and a lace bodice with a round neck and short puff sleeves. Her floor-length veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift from the bridegroom. Deep pink roses and lily of the valley showered with sweetheart roses, composed the bouquet. Miss Dorothy Palmer, sister of the groom, was maid of honor in a full-skirted frock of pale blue chiffon with bishop sleeves and a matching Mary Stuart headdress; and the bridesmaids were another sister, Miss Vera Palmer, and Miss Patricia Milligan, in similar frocks in a paler shade of blue. They wore bandeaux of pale blue pleated net trimmed with sprays of forget-me-nots in their hair, and all carried bouquets of pink tulips and carnations. Mr. P. A. ("Sandy") McPherson was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Fred Lescock and Mr. Craig Johns. Colonial posies marked the special guest pews.

During the reception in the church hall, the young couple stood beneath an archway covered with apple-blossom and lilac between baskets of the same flowers, and bowls of assorted flowers were arranged with charming effect in the rooms. Mr. T. Wray, an old friend of the bridegroom's family, proposed the toast. Mrs. Fennell had chosen for the occasion a navy blue and white redingote ensemble with matching accessories, and Mrs. Palmer a deep blue outfit with white accessories, and both wore corsage bouquets of pink carnations. The bride's table was covered with a handsome cloth crocheted by her mother, and was centred with the cake standing among vases of roses and snapdragons and lighted white tapers. Bombardier and Mrs. Palmer will make their home on Reynolds Road after a honeymoon on the Mainland. The bride went away in a green and white printed silk dress with brown accessories and an opossum-trimmed beige coat with a boutonniere of Sweetheart roses.

FIELD—YOUNG

At a wedding solemnized by Rev. Canon Smith in St. Barnabas' Church last evening at 8 o'clock, Ivis Mae, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Young, 2722 Shelbourne Street, became the bride of Mr. Stephen Field, second son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Field, Calgary, Alta. The organist was in attendance. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a white sheer gown with long sleeves and a flowing train studded with orange blossom. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms on her head, and she carried a bouquet of red roses, sweet peas and lily of the valley. Mrs. Stanley Porter, the matron of honor, was gowned in soft blue chiffon, and Miss Joyce Merrick, the bridesmaid, in pink chiffon, the frocks being fashioned with long full skirts and bishop sleeves. They also wore doll hats to match the frocks and carried bouquets of pink carnations and pastel-shaded sweet peas. Donna and Joan Crook were dainty flower girls, dressed in pale blue taffeta frocks with flowers in their hair, and carried Colonial posies. Mr. Stanley Porter was best man. The home of the bride's parents was fragrant with flowers for the reception, where the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Young, in a smart black ensemble with a corsage bouquet of roses. The buffet supper table was decorated with sweet peas, and the cake stood on the sideboard, where it was cut by the bride after the customary toasts had been honored. Following a honeymoon in Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Field will return to Victoria to make their home. The bride went away in a blue suit and hat with beige accessories and a corsage bouquet of carnations.

HURDLE—JOHNSON

Shell Lake, Sask., Victoria and New Westminster share interest in the wedding which took place on April 4, at Olivet Baptist Church, New Westminster, when Miss Judith K. Johnson, second daughter of Mr and Mrs. N. A. Johnson, of Shell Lake, became the bride of Mr. David Roy Hurdle, eldest son of Mr. D. R. Hurdle and the late Mrs. Hurdle, of Victoria. Rev. J. L. Sloat officiated. April 4 was also the wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. L. Connolly, wore a white suede taffeta gown and a shoulder-length veil. She carried a shower bouquet of Easter lilies and gardenias. Miss Selma M. Johnson, who attended her sister as bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue sheer and carried a bouquet of daffodils and iris. Mr. Robert Hurdle, of Victoria, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, when the bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. L. Sloat and Mrs. S. A. Dilley. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, embedded in pink tulle, sent from Saskatchewan by the bride's mother. Those serving were Mrs. L. Connolly, Miss S. Johnson, Miss Phyllis Louck and Miss G. Greenbank.

At the reception, Miss Gertrude Greenbank sang "O Promise Me" and "Because" with Mr. Garnet Rowbottom as accompanist. A reception was held in Victoria for Mr. and Mrs. Hurdle by relatives of the groom. The couple will make their home in New Westminster.

HAZELL—KENWORTHY

The marriage was quietly solemnized in St. Mark's Church by Rev. O. L. Jull at 8 o'clock last evening between Phyllis Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kenworthy, 2840 East Forty-Third Avenue, Vancouver, and Corporal Gordon Harold Hazell, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hazell, Hamilton, Ont. Owing to the unavoidable absence of her father, the bride was given away by her mother and wore a beige crepe redingote ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage bouquet of roses. Attending her was Miss Louise Mearon, in dusky rose with white accessories and a corsage bouquet of deep red roses, and David Harley, R.C.A.F., was best man. The reception was held in Hampton Hall, which was bright with flowers. Music was supplied for dancing and a buffet supper served, the bride's table being centred with the cake and decorated with vases of flowers. For a honeymoon on the Mainland, the bride left in a teal blue suit with hat en suite. Corporal and Mrs. Hazell will make their home in Sidney.

At a quiet wedding solemnized by Squadron Leader the Rev. E. W. L. May, R.A.F., in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church at 8 o'clock last evening, Elsie Barbara, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crane, 1037 Lyall Street, became the bride of Flight Sergeant Harry James Marsh, R.C.A.F., second son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Marsh, Winnipeg, Man. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father, and a wore teal blue dressmaker suit with a wide-brimmed black soft felt hat, black accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Kenneth Ross supported the bridegroom. After a few days' honeymoon in Vancouver, Flight Sergeant and Mrs. Marsh will take up residence at 1016 Richardson Street.

McLEOD—DEFOE

The marriage took place in Revelstoke, on April 24, at 2 p.m., in First United Church, of Doris Anita Defoe, daughter of Mrs. J. Defoe and the late Mr. J. Defoe, to Myles Howard McLeod, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan McLeod, 3030 Quadra Street, Victoria, Rev. R. W. Hibbert officiating. The bride was attired in a grey suit with blue accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Her only attendant was her sister, Emily, wearing a dusky rose dress with accessories to match. The groom was supported by Constable W. L. Cowan. After a reception at the home of the bride the couple left for a honeymoon to be spent in Vancouver en route to Prince Rupert, to which city the groom has been transferred as a member of the British Columbia Provincial Police.

FULLERTON—NAYLOR

The marriage took place in St. Mark's Church, Halifax, on April 25, at 7:30 p.m., Rev. W. W. Clarkson officiating, when Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Naylor, 2963 Scott Street, Victoria, became the bride of Stoker Sidney Douglas Fullerton, R.C.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fullerton, 1693 Earle Street, Victoria. The church was decorated with Spring flowers and during the service the wedding music was played by Mrs. Dorothy Schultz. Mrs. Winnie Hutcheson singing "Because" as a solo. She was attended by Mrs. Winnie Hutcheson as matron of honor, who wore a beige and brown dress with matching accessories. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Doris Appleby, who wore a powder blue dress with navy blue accessories and a bouquet of carnations. The best man was A.B. Val Ramsdale, R.C.N., also of Victoria. A reception was held in the dining-room of Norman's Cafe, where the table was arranged with Spring flowers and a three-tier wedding cake. Stoker Robert Traile proposed the toast to the bride and groom. Among the guests were many friends from Victoria. Stoker and Mrs. Fullerton will make their home temporarily in Halifax, and will return to Victoria shortly.

Solarium League Holding Tag Day

The Solarium Junior League will hold a tag day today, the proceeds to be devoted to the care of crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium. As this is the last direct appeal this season for funds for the Solarium, it is hoped that the public will respond as generously as in former years and help this very worthy cause.

EVACUATED from London, these English children have been outfitted with warm, well-made clothing provided by the women of the Canadian Red Cross Society. In the thousands of Red Cross workrooms across Canada, more than 6,800,000 pieces of clothing and hospital supplies were produced last year for distribution to the men of Canada's armed forces and to British civilian victims of the Nazi air raids. The Red Cross is now asking for $9,000,000 with which to continue this and other essential humanitarian work during the next year.

Murder on the Avenue

CHAPTER XXIX

"You must make them tell. Don't let up until they do. Of course they remember! That forgetting is all pretence. Make them tell."

"Shall I collect the lot, and bring them here for questioning?"

"Yes, do. And let me be present. I can help you and I promise I will not offend."

"I think I'll get them here—but I'm not sure of allowing you to be with us."

"Of course I shall be there. And I'll make Hugh stay up with father. He mustn't be with us."

"Tomorrow evening, then."

Emmy McCleod was enjoying herself. She had told her brother that she would look over Alma's belongings and decide what to do with the clothing and all the folderol that cluttered the boudoir and dressing-room.

"You know, Hugh," she said, "you would be perfectly helpless in this matter. I shall use my superior wisdom and judgment, and I will give away the things where they will do the most good. There is practically nothing that I can use myself, and very few garments that are appropriate for Linda or Netta. The jewelry, of course, is yours. I like the bangle you gave me, but the other pieces are too elaborate for my use. You'd better sell them. You're too old to marry again, and I hope to heaven you won't flirt around with loose women. I shall take care of you, and—"

"Oh, Emmy, let me alone! Dispose of Alma's wardrobe as you see fit, but don't try to manage my life for me!"

Hugh seldom spoke snarply to his sister, but when he did, Emmy recognized the situation and accepted it.

Moreover, she took his irritation to mean that he would do as he pleased about his lady friends, and with the quick suspicion of a spinster whose ignorance made her imaginative, she visioned her brother in secret dissipations to distract his mind from his sorrow.

Yet after his sudden angry speech, she dared not annoy him further and she talked of other things. But with all her generalship Emmy found her task of looking over Alma's things more arduous than she expected. There were so many gowns and cloaks and hats, so much lingerie and such quantities of accessories, many of which she didn't even know the use of, that she was glad to have Linda's help and advice.

Hugh himself, had cannily taken all the contents of Alma's desk and any other letters or papers that either he or Linda could find, but to his great satisfaction, he found no incriminating screeds and discovered no secret interests in Alma's life.

Hugh had loved the beautiful woman with a single-hearted devotion, that was sometimes dumb before her fascinating charm. He was like a big adoring dog, to whom his master is all the world. He had never chided her for her flirtations, feeling that she wanted and needed young friends, and always certain that whatever she did was right.

Alma knew and understood his attitude perfectly, and though flirtations was a mild word for her affairs, she had never been moved to real love for any man, least of all her husband. Her only happiness lay in excitement, whether of an innocent sort, or something less admirable. And her natural reserve and her innate cleverness protected her from criticism.

So Hugh found few notes or other proofs of Alma's meetings with other men, though many such had occurred. And what Linda knew, she had no intention of telling.

Hugh had asked the maid to stay until Alma's things had been looked after, and Linda had sense enough to manage Miss McCleod with amity.

This resulted in what looked like enough clothing to last the girl for the rest of her natural life, beside a lot of valuable articles which the astute Linda could dispose of profitably.

Hugh, himself, was in a dark quandary. He could not face daily life with his sister, for though he loved her she was most trying to him. Yet he could not go away and leave her and their dying father alone.

He treated the detectives with courtesy and patience, and expressed a willingness to help but they observed that the horror of Alma's death was eclipsed by his own despairing grief.

Twenty-four hours sufficed Captain Raynor for arranging what he called, to Sergeant Colby, his round-up, and then, Hugh was informed, a session would be held in the room where the murder took place.

The two detectives would be present and the two McCleods, for Emmy insisted on her rights.

Then four men, who were under suspicion would be closely questioned and their responses, together with some facts the police had ferreted out, would, Raynor hoped, discover the murderer.

"That's good work," Hugh said, when Emmy told him. "It's definite, joking around couldn't get them anywhere."

"But they gathered up some evidence," she said. "You'll see."

"Any of the servants in on this?" he asked.

"Captain Raynor said to have Dickson and Linda in readiness, and that Netta, the temporary maid. I don't like that girl."

"She can't know much of importance."

"Yes, she can. She was in and out of the room all evening. And she's a sneak anyway. But if she knew anything, she would have told it before this."

"Very Likely."

Hugh had long since found that the easiest way to answer Emmy's insistence was to agree with her. And he hadn't noticed the girl Netta, if indeed he had seen her at all.

He didn't like the idea of having the inquiry take place in the room where Alma had died, and he told Emmy so.

But she said, placidly, "It will have to be, Hugh, because Captain Raynor said so. I'm not sure, but I think he has an idea that confronted by the scene of the crime the murderer will confess."

"Oh, Emmy, I don't want to be present at a scene like that! Can't you get me out of this?"

"Don't be silly! Of course you must be there."

"But if one of those chaps really confesses to killing Alma—why, Emmy, I couldn't keep my hands off him! I would tear him to pieces! You know I would!"

Emmy looked at him. For forty-five years that look had never failed of its purpose.

"You would want to," she said, calmly, "but you wouldn't do it."

Hugh said no more, except that he still thought the inquiry should not take place in that room.

Hosiery Colors Will Be Limited

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP).—Orders prescribing a limited color range for men's and women's hosiery—full-fashioned and circular knit—were announced today by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The orders were issued on behalf of H. G. Smith, administrator of knitted goods.

Women members of armed forces auxiliaries were specially provided for in an order governing full-fashioned hosiery, authorizing air force blue, khaki, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps tan, gunmetal, black "and any four additional shades of colors."

Manufacturers may choose such four (additional) shades or colors and are not to make more than three changes a year in the color ranges so chosen," the announcement said. "Substitution of one shade or color for another will be held to constitute a change."

The order governing full-fashioned hosiery is effective immediately.

Another order, effective in the Fall of 1942, prohibited manufacturers of circular knit hosiery from making any men's fancy half hose for sale at retail except in these basic body colors of cotton or wool: Black, grey mix, navy, blue mix, brown, brown mix, green and maroon.

No more than four body colors may be used in manufacture of any one line or style of such hose and no body color may be duplicated in any one line or style. Yarn on hand, or yarn actually ordered of a specified color, may be used, but the board ruled that such yarn, when used up is to be replaced with one of the listed basic body colors until all colors different from the basic range provided have been eliminated from stock."

The same order, dealing with one-color half hose, specifies the basic colors already listed, plus air force blue and khaki.

SAM AND HYMN

At a bar dinner, Sam Ewing, a lawyer and a great punster, was called upon for a song. While he hesitated, Judge Hopkins observed at best it would be no great matter as it would be but Sam (psalm) singing.

"Well," replied Ewing, "even that would be better than him (hymn) singing."

A Help to Those Who Are Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little ailments and sicknesses seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time those wishing to help maintain their health and vigour should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

They help tone up and invigorate the patient by their tonic action on the system.

Price 50c a box, 6 pills, at all drug counters.

Look for our trade mark a "Red Heart" on the package.

CHARTERS TO BE RESTORED

Prince Rupert, Fernie and Burnaby to Manage Own Affairs in 1943

Three of the six British Columbia municipalities which got into debt difficulties and passed under commission control a few years ago will have their charters fully reinstated next year, Premier John Hart announced yesterday after a report by Hon. A. W. Gray to the Provincial Executive. Prince Rupert, Fernie and Burnaby are the three centres planning now to hold municipal elections in December for the return of civic boards in January, 1943.

Fernie was reported debt free; Prince Rupert has been paying its way completely for three years, and Burnaby is solvent again after material reduction of its former debt burden, Premier Hart announced. In each of the three centres a mayor or reeve, an aldermanic board and a school board will be elected in December, after the preparation of their voters' lists.

In all three centres Provincial Police services will continue as heretofore, so that there will be no election for police commissions.

North Vancouver City, North Vancouver District and Merritt, the remaining three centres, will remain under commission control for the present, it was announced.

QUALICUM VILLAGE

Premier Hart announced at the same time that a charter was being issued for the incorporation of the Village of Qualicum, on Vancouver Island, as the eighty-first municipality of the Province.

Qualicum Village will start its corporate life under three commissioners, H. J. Welch, George Lane and E. L. Boultbee, all resident there. It joins the nineteen other villages, twenty-eight districts and thirty-three cities of the Province on the list of chartered municipalities.

What Today Means

TAURUS

If May 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a.m., from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 9 to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a.m., from 7 to 9 p.m. and from 11 p.m. until midnight.

Dilatory tactics will react unfavorably on the affairs of those guilty of them, so do not do any dawdling. People who have artistic tastes will have many opportunities to give ample evidence of it on this date, particularly in giving final touches to interior decorations and table arrangements. The average person's inclination to stick his finger in someone else's pie should be curbed if complications are to be avoided. Watch your diction on this day, for the jumbling of words evidently is going to be responsible for many misunderstandings and mistakes. Avoid creating tense situations for they are likely to end disastrously. Married and engaged couples, as well as sweethearts, will do well to remember that "saying is one thing, doing another," and that May 2 will be a day on which it will be good judgment to be careful about what you say, do and the manner in which you do it.

If you are a woman and May 2 is your birthday, it might be wise to analyze yourself rather than other people. You should have the knack of being able to get nearly everyone to do the things you want them to do. You have in all likelihood, a disarming smile and an attractive personality, both of which are apt serve you well in furthering your ambitions. Unselfishness probably characterizes most of your actions and is apt to bring you the unstinted praise of many people. As a professional entertainer, actress, model, artist, designer, author, agent, restaurant operator, business manager, florist, interior decorator or government employee, you may find yourself employed in congenial and profitable work. A husband's love and devotion should make you a happy woman.

The child born on May 2 usually is born with the qualities which will enable him to have a most fortunate and successful career. Taurain children generally receive much admiration and praise.

If you are a man and May 2 is your natal day, travel should have a broadening influence on your outlook on life. Much hard work and study probably will be responsible for your future success. Your activities in acting, writing, singing, publishing, medicine, legal work, inventing, manufacturing, selling or in some military activity may enable you to win many laurels.

Chat Body of Yours
by JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HOW OFTEN CAN THE BLOOD BE SAFELY GIVEN?

Now that there is need of blood donors in both civil and military life, the question arises as to how much blood a donor may give at one time, how soon thereafter it may be used back to normal, and that it can safely another lot of blood, what is the effect upon his blood of giving blood at regular intervals and can anything be done to enrich his blood more rapidly than waiting for it to come up to normal naturally. An individual giving blood is called a donor.

All these questions are answered by Drs. Willis M. Fowler and Adelaide P. Barer, Iowa City, in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Observations were made on a total of 200 blood donors who have given blood for the state census at the University Hospital. The list of donors was composed almost entirely of medical students, the resident staff and employees so that the subjects were young men who were available for follow-up visits.

These donors had to be free of organic disease and their blood up to normal level. The richness of the blood, such, number of cells and amount of hemoglobin, were in the cells. Are examined before giving blood, twenty-four hours after and at weekly intervals thereafter until the blood was back to its condition before the blood was given. About a pint of blood was given each time.

What did the follow-up studies show?

The average time required to replace the iron in the blood was about forty-nine and a half days. When a small amount of blood was given, recovery to the normal amount of hemoglobin occurred in less time. The blood in men returned to normal in a little less time than in women.

Further, the second and following donations may be given with safety as soon as the hemoglobin has returned to its normal level, the length of time for the blood to get back to normal after the second and following donations was not longer than after the first donation, that is about forty-nine and a half days.

After the first donation, giving iron and ammonium citrates brought the blood back to normal in three to five days, but after the second and following donations the length of time required to get back to normal grew progressively longer.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

Professional Boxing Is Dead Until After the War, Says Promoter

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 1 (CP).—Sports shorts from Britain: Championship professional boxing in Britain is dead until after the war, says London promoter Sydney Hulls. That's his reaction to Sir Kingsley Wood's budget which doubled the tax on entertainment, including sports events.

"Apart from tournaments for really deserving charities, all big boxing is through for the duration," he said. "I can see little hope of staging any sort of tournament unless managers of fighters bring their prices down considerably. There can be no question of paying purses of hundreds of pounds."

On a seat costing approximately $9 the tax will be $4.55, leaving the promoter $4.45. "Out of which to pay himself, show expenses and wages to the boxers, their managers and trainers," Hulls added.

The Monocled Hurdler. He competed for Cambridge with a monocle in his right eye. was killed during army exercises. He was Capt. A. J. Fitzgerland, twenty-one, Royal Engineers, 1936 hurdle winner for Cambridge against Oxford.

The MacKinnon of Mackinnon. Mr. Oldtimer of British Cricket, recently celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday. Since becoming thirty-fifth chief of the clan MacKinnon in 1903 and returning to the Highlands he usually travels south for the cricket season each year. He played for England at Melbourne in 1897.

The late Joan Seaine Austen of Bury St. Edmunds, a well-known racehorse owner, left an estate of approximately $1,150,000. Among his bequests was $1,200 to the racing correspondent of a London newspaper and the will added that "I take this opportunity of thanking writers of the sporting press for many kindly references to me."

Unc' Billy Possum Meets an Old Friend

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"Hello, Ol' Mistah Buzzard! Where'd Yo'all Come From?"

Unc' Billy Possum lost no time in getting over to the dead tree in the had seen the stranger go to roost for the night. Unc' Billy wanted to get there before the stranger had gone to sleep, for if it was his old friend, Ol' Mistah Buzzard, as Unc' Billy felt sure it was, he had just got to say "howdy" that very night.

Now Unc' Billy is seldom caught napping, so though he was very sure that this was his old friend he didn't intend to run any risk of furnishing a good supper for a hungry hawk. So, as Unc' Billy drew near the dead tree he crept up very still and carefully until he was where he could see the stranger clearly. There he sat on a branch of the dead tree. He was dressed in sooty black, and he sat like an old man, his head drawn down and his shoulders hunched up. His head was bald and wrinkled.

Unc' Billy took one good look and then he let out a whoop that made the stranger stretch out his long neck and begin to grin in pleased surprise.

"Hello, —Ol' Mistah Buzzard! Where'd yo'all come from?" shouted Unc' Billy Possum.

"Ah reckon Ah done come straight from the sunny souf, an Ah reckon this is the lonesomest land Ah ever done seen. Ah'm going straight back where Ah come from. What yo'all staying up here fo' anyway, Unc' Billy?"

Unc' Billy grinned. "Ah'm staying because Ah done like it here mighty well, and Ah reckon that yo'all is going to like it mighty well, too," replied Unc' Billy.

Mistah Buzzard shook his head. "All day Ah done try to make friends, and every one done run away. Ah don't understand it, Unc' Billy. Ah cert'nly don't understand it at all." Mr. Bu

"No sir, we don't," the shopkeeper replied. "Y'see, sir," he added, apologetically, "we never have no call for 'em. Nobody in these parts seems to keep camels."
